PREFACE

Goodspeed 1837 50 (3 vols.)

The original prospectus of the Lyon memorial contemplated a single volume of possibly five hundred pages, which should include all easily accessible information about the several Lyon families which established themselves in New England prior to the year 1650. As the material accumulated, it became soon apparent that a single volume would not suffice. In fact the monograph has given place to a trilogy. With the present volume, the task taken in hand four years ago is brought to completion. It deals with the family of Thomas Lyon, which, although belonging in the beginning to New England, was early in its history transplanted into the neighboring State of New York.

The publisher of the Lyon Memorial has been fortunate in enlisting for this portion of the work, the co-operation of a man whose acquaintance with the subject has extended over many years, and has been that of a professional genealogist—Mr. Robert B. Miller. It is only fair to Mr. Miller to say that, while he has given shape to the family history, furnishing the authentic data and references to authorities that give to the narrative its high value as history, it has not been possible for him to edit the whole of the material that has been collected during the past year. For the foundation and plan of the work, his is the credit; if the structure seem to the critical lacking in symmetry and harmony, the fault is that of those who have had to build independently upon that foundation, with such material as offered itself. Very valuable assistance has been rendered by a number of the descendants of Thomas Lyon. First and foremost among those who have interested themselves in gathering details of the family history must be named R. F. Skiff, of Iowa Falls, Ia., who has traced down to the present time the history of many of the descendants of Jonathan Lyon of Bedford. It would, perhaps, be invidious to select for mention individuals from the many others who have contributed data pertaining to their immediate relatives. Acknowledgment must, however, be made of the aid rendered by Mr. Paul P. Lyon of Mount Pleasant, Pa., in draughting the map of Westchester County—an important addition to the value of the book.

Each volume of the Lyon Memorial is complete in itself, although each contains matter that cannot fail to interest every Lyon who has a proper family pride. The first volume of the series treats of the families of William Lyon of Roxbury, Peter Lyon of Dorchester and George Lyon, also of Dorchester. It contains an introductory chapter on the English Ancestry of the American Lyon families, contributed by Dr. G. W. A. Lyon, who has returned to the subject, with much added information, in the introductory chapter of the present volume. The second book of the series deals with two of the brothers who came to Fairfield, Conn., about 1648. This volume is edited by Sidney Elizabeth Lyon, of Jeffersonville, Ind., who accepts the family tradition of a Scotch origin of these families. She treats in an introductory chapter of "Some Old World Lyons," particularly the Scotch family of the Earls of Strathmore. Prof. S. R. Winans, of Princeton University, contributes an interesting chapter on Lyons Farms, illustrated with a map showing the original allotments of land in the old settlement. Another map shows the original allotments of land to settlers in Newark.

The present volume is devoted to the single family of Thomas Lyon, at one time of Fairfield, and presumably a brother of Richard and Henry, who were also "of Fairfield." Its distinguishing feature is the index of places, which will be of help to any one who wishes to trace the ancestry of any particular Lyon. The index includes descendants of all the Lyon families treated in the several volumes of the Memorial.

The task which the writer of these lines assumed four years ago is at last concluded. If it has been but imperfectly done, the half loaf is better than no bread. It will be long before the complete and adequate history is written. Meanwhile those who have collaborated in preparing the Lyon Memorial will find ample reward for their labor in the gratitude of their kinsmen who will owe to them some acquaintance with a family history in which they may well take pride.

THE LYONS OF ENGLAND

FROM THE TIME OF THE CONQUEST.

BY G. W. A. LYON, M. D.

(Member of the Pennsylvania Historical Society.)

"Lyons, a small district of France, to the s. e. of the district of Bray, and n. of Lyons la Forêt, on the left bank of the Andelle; formerly included within the extent of the Forest of Lyons, much more vast than today." [Univ. Geography—v. de St. Martin.].

"Lyons la Forêt, a village of the department of Eure, 20 kilometers n. of Andelys, at the sources of the Lieure, a tributary of the Seine through the Andelle, in the midst of a beautiful beech forest; 75 meters altitude; 690 inhabitants, 1270 with the commune; sawmills and tanneries; church of the 13th and 16th centuries." [Gazeteer.].

This district and this town are of special interest to the Lyon family, inasmuch as it is from them that we derive our name. The village has probably grown from the cottages that clustered about the ancient Castle of Lyons, of which the ruins may still exist. The Castle and the forest are both plainly marked on old maps. Those who can not find it on their maps, can place it quite accurately by marking a dot a little to the south of east of Rouen, at the apex of an equilateral triangle whose base is a line drawn from Andelys to Gisors.

The name was originally De Lyons—of the castle and forest of Lyons. But phonetic spelling plays havoc with names: about 1100 variants of the name Cushing have been noted, and one name has four variants in a single line. Lyon is spelled with and without the de or the s; with y changed to i, e, oi or oy, ei or ey, or eu; the o becomes a, e or u; the n becomes nne. It is found as Len, Line or Lyne. By the monks it was sometimes written Lin, with the Latin ending u s, or was more frequently translated literally into Leonibus. Whether it is the origin of Lynne is uncertain; while as n often assumes a d, as in Simon—Simond, it may be connected with Lynd [see Mass. Col. Rec., Thos Line or Lynd of Charlestown 1637].

In 1066, the Lord of Lyons hearkened unto the call of Duke William, and for his services was awarded Corsham and Culington. The earlier generations seem to have spent most of their time abroad. When Hen. I. went to France to arrange the disputes arising out of the marriage of his daughter Matilda with Geoffrey of Anjou, he stayed for some time at the Castle of Lyons, no doubt as the guest of its Lord; and it was at this castle that, after a day of hunting in the forest, he partook of a hearty meal of stewed eels, of which he was especially fond, and "died of a surfeit."

Hugo, of the 4th generation, passed little of his time in England; and it was due to his friendship with Richard I. that he incurred the enmity of King John, whereby he was twice deprived of his estates. Later the family became attached to the soil, though many county histories tell how estate after estate passed from them, partly through large donations to religious societies, partly through failure in the direct male line.

The chief authority for the history of the English Lyons has been the Rolls Office Pedigree [vol. 1.* p. 10.], printed in Welles' American Family Antiquity. Mr. Philippe, the compiler, had access to the English records, and while his statements are, in the main, quite accurate, his conclusions therefrom are in many cases contradicted by direct evidence. As no records were kept until Hen. VIII., and even these very incompletely, all data concerning the old families must come from various documents of a legal or a religious nature. In the very nature of the case, it is generally impossible to determine dates, and therefore to decide upon the precise degree of relationship between those who yet are unquestionably of the same household. A glance at the published pedigree of the Earls of Strathmore will show that it is impossible to prove a clear descent from the 11th century. In this exegesis, the compiler does not attempt to cover the whole ground, but confines himself to the evidence that he has personally examined. He passes over the history of the Scottish branch, which is treated fully in vol. II. of the memorial.

It has been claimed that Godfrey de Louvain, duke of Brabant, was the head of the Norman family of Lyon; but this seems quite unlikely. First: There was no duke Godfrey till some time after the conquest; the dukes were the head of the family of Louvain; they did not bear the lesser title de Louvain, which was borne by a younger son. Second: Manning (Hist. of Surrey) says that Sir Nicholas Louvain was a descendant of the noble family of Louvain, a younger branch of the House of Lorraine; Godfrey de Louvain, surnamed from his place of birth, had lands in England in right of his mother, granddaughter of King Stephen. Third: the name Louvain in England is always Louvain, just as Lyon is always Lyon, disguised though each may be by the well-established phonetic changes.

An interesting item, possibly bearing upon the relations with Malcolm Canmore [vol. II. pg. 12.] is noted in Kennet's Parochial Hist. of Oxford. "Waltheof, son of Earl Siward, for winning him over to the Norman interest, received from William I. his niece Judith, dau. of Lambert de Lenes [Lyons?] by Maud, countess of Albemarle, dau. of Halwyn de Comitis Villa by Arlota his wife, and thereby sister to Duke William by his mother."

"The name Loions," says the Duchess of Cleveland [the Battle Abbey Roll], is derived from the castle and forest of Lions in Normandy" [see also the Norman People].† "Ingelram de Lions came in 1066, and held Corsham and Culington from the King. He had Ranulph, whose brother, William de Lions, had a grant from Earl Wm. Giffard, and left descendants. Ranulph had Ingelram de Lions, who was named Parcarius, as being forester (parker) of Croxton Park, Leicester, by exchange with the King [Hen. II.]. Wm. Parcarius de Lions [his son] was a benefactor of Croxton Abbey tempo Hen. II. (1154—1189), and was a brother of Hugh, who was deprived of his estates 1203. One of this family [dropping the title, and assuming the name of the office] was ancestor of the family of Parker, and of the Earls of Macclesfield."

"Earl Wm. Warren possessed Croxton," says Nicholls (Hist. of Leicester). "He died 1160. Henry II. kept it for a while, but exchanged it for Corsham and Culington, of which two-thirds belonged to William, son of Ingelram Parcarius de Lyons, a Norman whose ancestor] came with the Conqueror ["and one-third," says Lancashire Inquests, "to Masilia de Apyard, held by bearing the standard of the Parker when in service of the King"]. William was succeeded by his brother Hugo; but King John gave his lands to Hubert de Bergh, while Hugo was absent in Normandy. But he accompanying Richard I. back, his lands were restored, and he held them till 1203, when John, in retaliation for the seizure of the lands of the English in Normandy by Philip Augustus, seized the lands of the French in England, and Hugo's lands escheated to the crown, and were given to Geoffrey Luttrell. William finished the abbey in 1162, and bestowed the property for the [spiritual] health of his mother Matilda, his father Ingeram, his brother Hugo, and his ancestors. The grant was confirmed by Hugo, and other lands were added. Maud (Matilda) de Perer, mother of Hugo, gave also her right in Croxton Park." This park still exists.

The Monasticon Anglicanum is a compilation by Dugdale of the historic records of the monasteries and abbeys in England. These records were written by monks, and of course in Latin. Those relating to Croxton Abbey give substantially the account quoted from Nicholls above; but as a matter of interest, an excerpt from the original is here given.

Ex registro de Croxton penes Comitem Rutland apud Castrum de Belvoir. "Habemus in Croxton de dono Willielmi Parcarii, filii Ingerami Parcarii de Linus, duas partes de parco de Croxton et quicquid in eodem sui juris fuit et libertates etc....et duas partes carnucatae [100 A.] terrae Rogeri Parcarii etc....Item. Hugo Parcarius frater praedicti Willielmi confirmavit nobis dictum donatum secundum tenorem cartem ejusdem Willielmi. Item. habemus de dono ejusdem Hugonis duas bovatas [30 A.] etc. quas Reginaldus filius Estmundi tenuit etc. Item. idem Hugo dedit etc....sicut Ingeram pater suus sive Willielmus frater suus illud unquam liberius et plenarius possederunt nobis imperpetuum possidendum....Item. Matilda de Perer mater praedicti Hugonis Parcarii dedit nobis in puram clemsinam quicquid juris etc." Thereafter follows what is found in Nicholl.

From these accounts, it appears quite evident that the four first generations of our line were:—

1. Ingelram de Lyons, who came with the Conqueror.
2. Ranulph—William of Norfolk.
3. Ingelram de Lyons, called Parcarius (the Parker), m. Matilda de Perers.
4. William—Hugo.

Probably there were other children: note the name Roger in Mon. Angl. above. Ranulph, brother of Ilgeram, Ranulph, son of Ilgeram, and Edmund, son of Paganus, are found in Norfolk Doomsday Book. This last may be the Estmund referred to in the Mon. Angl. excerpt. It is but fair to say that there is no proof that the three last were surnamed Lyon. It is unfortunate that Mr. Philippe does not give his authorities for the descendants of Roger [vol. I., p. 11]; still the completion of the Victorian series of county histories may enable the future historian to clear up many points that are now obscure.

William of the second generation settled in Norfolk. It was probably the sons of this William who became lords of Weston. The records are not so full as one could wish, and it is often impossible to tell who's who. Blomfield (Hist. of Norfolk) gives the following data:—

Ralph de Lions and William de Lions were the lords of Lyon's Manor, Weston, and are mentioned in a grant of Wm. Giffard, 2d. Earl of Buckingham.

In 1187 Roger de Leonibus impleaded Ralph de Birston for two parts of a fee [800 A.] in Earl Warren's manor of Birston. Roger was son of Jeffrey, who m. Mathilda, dau. and coheir of Wm. de Lions who lived tempo Hen. II. (1154-1189), and left two other daus. and coheirs, Hawise and Beatrice, and they dying without issue, he claimed it as heir [through Matilda]. Wm. de Grandcourt, lord of Fulmodeston, proving that Jeffrey had levied a fine of the same to his ancestor Wm. de Grancourt, Birston held his possession. [compare vol. II., p. 11.]

In 1228 Walter de Grancurt purchased by fine of Jeffrey de Leonibus one carnucate (100 A.) of land in Clipston-Croxton.

Wm. de Lions and his tenants tempo Hen. III. (1216-1272) held one-half fee (400 A.) of the Honor of Richmond in Archbridge and Swanington under Robt. de Furneaux. Wm. de Lions and Sibilla his wife held lands here and in Weston and Helmingham of the Earl of Clare. He granted a meadow at Brockdish Hall for the use of the Almoner of the Priory.

Adam of Weston, living 1239, acknowledged to do service for one-half fee (400 A.) to Wm. de Englefield for his lands in Weston etc.

Jeffrey Lyon and Thomas, son of Henry de Lions, are mentioned 1303.

In 1314 Hugh de Stanford settled by fine on Adam de Lyons lands in Weston, Helmingham and Ringland for life, with remainder to Ernald de Lyons his son and Alice his wife in tail.

In 1347 Adam, son of Ernald, released to Sir Peter de Tye lands in Weston,—papers sealed with a lion rampant.

In 1391 Nicholas, son of Arnald of Weston, parson of Rollesby, reciting that whereas Wm. Lyons of Flytcham had enfeoffed John Stanford et al. in his manor of Weston-Lyons in Weston, Helmingham and Moreton, which where [sic] the said Arnald Lyons, Nicholas released his right in the same.

In 1401 Walter de Middleton held the fourth part of a fee (200 A.) of the heirs of Arnald de Lyons, and he of the Earl of March.

No one of our name appears in the list of Norfolk gentry in 1500.

An incomplete pedigree would appear as follows, the dates showing when they were mentioned:—

Ralph and William: very early.

Matilda, Hawise and Beatrice, daughters of William; the first m. Jeffrey Lyon: before 1187.

Roger, son of Jeffrey and Matilda: 1187.

Jeffrey de Leonibus: 1228.

William de Lions and Sibilla, his wife: 1216-1272.—Adam: 1239.

Jeffrey and Thomas, son of Henry de Lions: 1303—Adam: 1314.

Ernald, son of Adam, and Alice his wife: 1314.

Adam, son of Ernald: 1347.

William—Arnald, and Nicholas, his son: 1391. Arnald dead: 1401.

The Lyon family was established in Essex early in the 13th century. The first known proprietor was Thomas, who may have been that son of Henry de Lions of the Norfolk records. The main seat of the early Lyons was near Saffron Walden. This Thomas m. Margaret, and their dau. m. John Wydville, a son of that Richard Wydville who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Lyon of Warkworth, Northampton. A tabular statement of these marriages will show the double strain of Lyon blood in the royal family of England:—

1. Sir John de Lyons m. Alice St. Liz.
2. Elizabeth Lyon m. Richard Wydville. Thos. Lyon m. Margaret.
3. John Wydville m. dau. of Thos. Lyon.
4. Thos. Wydville.
5. Richard Wydville, Earl Rivers.

6. Elizabeth Wydville m. 1st. Sir John Grey; m. 2d. King Edward IV. By this 1st. marriage, Elizabeth was the ancestress of Lady Jane Grey; by the 2d. marriage, she was the mother of the murdered princes of the tower, and of Elizabeth of York, who m. Henry VII.

In the histories of the county by Morant, Chancellor and Wright, we have little more than vague references, such as "Lyons Hall, Chelmsford, was named from an ancient family." "In Hinchford Hundred is the capital messuage of Lyons, so called from an ancient family surnamed Lyon which flourished in this county tempo Edw. I.—III," (1307-1377).

Liston Hall reverted to Richard Lyons, who was killed by Wat Tyler (vol. I., p. 16). Shardlowe estate also belonged to him. Richard was the famous vintner and lapidary. He was buried in the church of St. James, Garlickhythe. Stow (Survey of London, 1598) says that his house was next to the Hanse Merchants' Guildhall, Thames St., next to Cosin's Lane. He describes the "Picture on his gravestone: very large and fair, with hair rounded by his ears; a little beard, forked; a gown girt to him down to his feet, of branched damask wrought to the likeness of flowers; a large purse on his right side, hanging in a belt from the left shoulder; a plain hood about his neck, covering his shoulders, and hanging back behind him." At the time of his death he held the Manor of Overhall in Liston of the King in capite, by service of making wafers on the King's coronation day, and serving with them the King at dinner on that day. But long before his decease he had enfeoffed Alice, Lady Neville, in the manors of Netherhall, and in lands and tenements in Liston, Borle, Foxherd and Penstowe. Netherhall was held of the Earl of March by the service of 12 s. per year, and Weston of Thomas Monshensy for 1 lb. of pepper. He had also the manor of Gosfield. Upon his death, these escheated to the crown. He is said by some to have been Richard of Oakley, mentioned in the Northampton pedigree; but Bridge says that the latter died 1361. A Richard was in Parliament tempo Richard II (1377-1399).

John, the Lord Mayor, and wife Alice, were granted lands 1545 by Hen. VIII. Elizabeth, 2d. wife of John, held lands in St. Albans 1560 for the life of Elizabeth. She was dau. of John Lee of Stanford, Co., Lincoln, and widow of Alderman Hynd, a colleague of Sir John. His will was proved 1569. Richard, son of his bro. Henry, was his heir, and he died 1579, leaving a son and heir Henry, aged 27 years. The latter died seized of the estates of Buckhurst in Chigwell and Woodford in 1590 (vol. I., p. 17).

The arms of the Essex family are first mentioned in connection with Thomas, 14th. century, and quite likely were assigned to him for some special service; they are described as arg. a chevron sable between three lions sejant gules, and are impaled with the Wydvile arms. Later the coat bears lions couchant. Those in the British Museum are badly drawn, and the position of the sleeping lions led to the inference that they were rampant, in allusion to the Warkworth arms; and they are so drawn in vol. I., p. 20, though the proper position is sejant or couchant.

The argument of heraldry indicates that the Essex family migrated to Hampshire and Somerset, as stated by The Norman People. Collinson (Hist. of Somerset) says: "About the time of Edw. I., another family succeeded to the estate of Long Ashton of the name of Lions or De Lions. Of this family was Nicholas de Lions, who in 1252 held the office of Reeve of Bristol. His eldest son was William, who improved the patrimonial estate by purchase from Agnes, widow of DeAino, and Wm. de Ashton. At his death 1312, he held a capital messuage, the same in all probability that is still partly standing. By Maud, his wife, he left issue, three sons, Adam, Thomas and Edmund. Adam de Lions, b. 1287, lived only one year after the death of his father. Thomas died 1328 without issue. Edmund, b. 1303, made a grant of Stockleigh to the Abbey of St. Augustine. He had lands in Kencot also. He died 1367, leaving two sons; William and Thomas. Wm. died without issue 1370. Thomas obtained a charter 1392 of free warren and liberty to enclose a park in Long Ashton, which from this family henceforth assumed the name Ashton-Lyons, and still dominates a tithing in this parish. His wife's name was Margaret; he left no issue. The church, dedicated to All Saints, was built by one of the Lyons, and Thomas is buried there. The Lyon arms—those of Essex—are cut in stone on the west end of the tower, and blazoned on the ceiling.

The Manor of Lyons Court at Filton still remains. It lies northward from the village of Whitchurch, and belonged to a family distinct from those of Ashton. As early as the 13th. century, they bore arms; Arg. two lions rampant respecting sable [a variant of the Warkworth arms]. They were retainers to the Abbots of Keynsham, from whom they held their territory. From David de Lyons issued David; Robert; Stephen; Ralph; Thomas and Roger, his brother who died without issue; Thomas; Thomas and Nicholas; Richard (9th generation) left no issue; his sister Edith m. Thomas Holbeach of Co. Lincoln. The hamlet of Burton and Melton was held 1396 of the King in capite by Thomas de Lyons. Edward was member of parliament 1336.

From Somerset they must have crossed into Ireland. O'Hart claims an Irish origin for the family, deriving the name from O'Liatan, the gray-haired. But as the family arms are those of Essex and Somerset, and as its most distinguished representative, the late Lord Lyons, former British Minister at Washington, derives from Hampshire, where Wm. de Lions was a witness 13th. century, it seems quite certain that any descendants of the gray-haired one are not of our race. Some Lyons in Ireland are of the family of Strathmore, and bear the Strathmore arms.

The descendants of the De Lyons of Croxton Park passed into Nottingham and Derby. The existing histories of these counties are unsatisfactory in many ways; but the Feudal History of Derby furnishes some items which are of considerable importance when taken in connection with the very full Northampton data.

Nicholas de Lenne, Forester, presented on the part of Edw. I. (1272-1307). John Lyon was with the Derby archers in Ireland 1362. Alan de Leuns was sued 1270. In 1310 Letitia and Alice, daughters of Wm. de Leuns of Chesterfield, sell lands. Adam de Lennes was on the Subsidy Rolls 1327. In 1286 Philip de Lenne (also called de Leuns) of Chesterfield was sued; he was plaintiff 1290. Robert and Philip de Leune mentioned about 1318. Alan de Leune and Philip mentioned tempo Hen. III. (1216-1272.) Philip was a witness 1318. Richard and Philip mentioned tempo Edw. I. (1272-1307.) Richard de Lenne sells lands in Eyom 1290. Robert de Leune of Chesterfield mentioned in Pleas of the Forest tempo Edw. I., and Philip de Lyan in the Pipe Rolls (tax list) 1213. Richard de Sutton held one Knight's fee (600 A.) in Sutton of the Honor of Richmond [for which Peter de Leonibus should respond]. Note: Peter de Leonibus did not succeed to the Honor of Richmond till 1203, but the words here placed in brackets, not there in the original, may have been added subsequently [Testa de Nevil (Inquisition)] Roger de Linde is on the Pipe Rolls 1255.

The Derby family spread into Northampton, probably through a marriage. The chief authority for the Northampton pedigree is the collection of documents preserved in the muniment room of the Chetwoods, who succeeded to the Warkworth estates through marriage with a Lyon heiress, and failure in the direct male line. An epitome of these documents was given in vol. 1., p. 436; but a few of them are copied below in the original form, the contracted forms, for the sake of clearnesss, being filled out in brackets, and the annexed numbers corresponding to the order in vol. I.

The pedigree is as follows. It is based upon the papers referred to, and upon the county histories of Baker and Bridge and the new Victorian History. Compare the names of witnesses [vol. I.] with the Derby list above.

1. Richard de Leuns m. Maud 2nd. Julianna, who was his widow 1205. He granted two virgates (80 A.) to his brother Matthew.

2. Roger de Leuns m. Hawise. His dau. Margaret m. Richard, son of Walter de Sutton; their dau. m. Sir Geoffrey Luttrell; a picture of this couple adorns a psalter made for Geoffrey, and a copy thereof is published in Fairholt's Costumes, Bohn Library.

3. Roger m. Joan, dau. of Adam de Napton. At her death 1278, her lands in Plympton went to their son and heir Richard, he being then 30 years.

4. Richard b. 1248, was living 1288 m. Lady Emma, who was his widow 1311. He had a brother, John de Lions.‡

5. John de Lions m. Margery, dau. of Hugo de Oakley; she was his widow 1317; he d. 1312; she was living 1323. This is the John, son of Pagan, of the Philippe pedigree (vol. I. p. XI.); but the following extracts seem to be conclusive. [XIII.] Haec est finalis concordia facta in curia regis apud Ebor [aceum] inter Hugonem de Okele quaerentem et Joh[ann]em de Lyouns et Margeriam uxorem ejus deforc[iantes] per Adam de Harewedon de duabus p[ar]tibus manerii de Warkworth etc. et pro hac recognitione fine et concordia idem Hugo concessit pred[i]ctis Joh[ann]i et Margeriae et haeredit[ibus] remanere Ric[ard]o filio p[rae]d [i] c[t]i Joh' is et heredibus etc. remanere rectis heredibus d[i]c[t]i Johannis patris p[rae]d[i]c[t] or [um] Joh'is et Ricardi. In 1319 he gave the manor of Beckbroke to his wife Alice; and in 1346 he gave to the prior and convent of Chacombe lands in Harpole and Plympton which he inherited from Adam de Napton; in 1337 he gave lands in Grimsbury to St. Leonard's Hospital in Banbury and later the hospital received lands in Banbury and Overthorp. His will was dated Saturday after the Feast of Conception of the B. V. M. 1383: To be buried in Chacombe Convent church; masses for the souls of Elizabeth Hastings and Lora Latimer his former wives; bequests to religious bodies. Proved Dec. 19, 1383. [Lincoln Wills].

His brother, Richard of Great Oakley, m. Margerie. He had a son Richard: [XXV.] A toutz ceaux l're verrounts ou orrounts. Richard de Lions de Warkworth et Richard son fitz etc. nouz estre tenuz à sire [Sir] John de Lyons, Seignr de Warkworth etc. Donné Ao, 35 Edw. III. (1361).

In 1330 Richard was summoned to show cause of his claim in Oakley. Replied that Hugo de Ocle died seized of the manor etc., leaving daughters, one Margery, his heirs; and that Margery conveyed her share to Richard de Lions and his heirs. In 1347 Richard accounts for one fee (800 A.) in Oakley, on levying aid for Knighthing the King's son. In 1361 Richard died; his moiety descending to Isabella, Cecilia and Christina, his sisters and heirs [this was probably Richard the son (see also the Battle Abbey)]. In 1418 Cecilia Ragonel

His monument, said to be one of the most beautiful in England, is in Warkworth church. He wears on his head a bascinet, to which is attached a camail of mail. Over the body is a cyclas laced on the right side; under this a haketon with sleeves, and under this a gambe-son. Legs and feet are in chausses of mail; spurs have plain wheel rowels left almost in block. Knees are protected by genouillères decorated with ball flowers and quatrefoils; elbows by guards and lion-faced discs; hands by gauntlets of plate and leather, with close-fitting cuffs strapped round the wrist. The head, supported by angels, rests on his helm for battle and jousting, surmounted by the crest, a talbot's head issuing from a ducal coronet. The feet press with admirable spontaneity on a lion. The shield is charged with the lion rampant of De Lyons. The sword is suspended by an elaborate baudric worn obliquely, whose ends are fastened in a double locket placed a few inches below the top of scabbard. The end of scabbard is protected by a bouterolle, and the pommel ornamented with a human face. An ornate misericorde is slung by a loop from the baudric. Every detail has received the sculptor's most careful attention.

Two other monuments are there; said to be of Sir John and Margery. He is represented cross-legged, in a hauberk which covers his head, and extends to the wrists, leaving the hands, which are elevated, bare. Every trace of mail is worn away, except a small portion above the knee at the opening of the tunic, which falls back, and reaches nearly to the heels. A plain horizontal belt, and a transverse one from which depends a sword at left side; on the left side is a heater shield. The head, bound with a plain fillet, is supported by two mutilated angels, and rests on a double cushion; the feet rest on a lion.

The other figure has a veil headdress confined around the head by a plain fillet, and falling to the shoulders. A wimple just covers the chin; an open mantle fastened by a cordon crossing below the arms, which are raised in devotion. The head rests on a cushion; on each side is a mutilated angel.

The last Sir John is the one who has been mistaken for John of Glamis. The John de Lyons, who 1334 was summoned to attend the King with horses and arms at Roxburgh [Rot. Scot., I. 306], and in 1343 had charters for lands in Perth and Aberdeen, who obtained the reversion of Glamis, and whose son was Grand Chamberlain of Scotland, was a descendant of Richard of Northampton—King David had possessions there—and may have been a cousin of the last Sir John.

Much more might be said of Northampton Lyons, but space forbids. The Oxford Hist. Soc. vol. 24 gives a long account of the various rectors of Begbroke, of whom the first whose name is known was appointed by Roger de Lyons in 1231. [see also Kennet's Parochial Hist. of Oxford]. Nicholas de Lyons was Rector 1303, and many of his family entered the church, here and in other counties. The Lyon family presented to this rectory for 117 years, except 1294, when Roger de Lens was patron. The name is probably connected with that of Matilda de Lens, who held one knight's fee (800 A.) from Ralph de Saley tempo Edw. I. [Lens is phonetic for Lyons, as in the Derby records, and there was therefore no "except."]

The History of Banbury quotes an odd writ of 1330. "Sir John de Lyons, summoned by quo warranto to show his claim of view of frankpledge and weyf in the manor of Warkworth, pleaded proscription, but acknowledged that neither he nor his ancestors had a pillory for offenders against the assize of bread, and that they punished offenders against the assize of beer by amerciament, and not by tumbril, till the third offense. The view was taken into the King's hands, and restored again for one-half mark."

The Derby family crossed into South Lancaster; but either as younger sons, or at a time when the family had descended from its proud estate. Many, however, were of the gentry class, and the name is found in the list of lesser gentry to this day. The county might be considered the Lyon stronghold in England, as they comprise .008 percent of the population. The published parish registers are of great value, and show that the Lyons have not removed from their original position in the southern part. Southern York also received a few settlers, and these also have not wandered far afield. In Lincoln, too, the name appears, but they do not seem to have settled in this shire until the 16th. century, possibly through the exchange of lands between the Lord Mayor and the King. (vol. I., p. 17.).

On account of their importance, and for the significance of the names, some of the Lancaster records are quoted, even though many dates are subsequent to the colonial migration. The dates are not here given in full, and names of females are for the most part omitted:—

The Lyons of Warwick, Bucks, Berks, and other Midland counties, seem to be of Northampton origin. The Middlesex line is said by Philippe to be of Essex stock, but this has been disproved by Mr. Thornton in the Harrow School [vol. I., p. 12.]. Some importance must be attached to the fact that most of the great schools of England founded their seals upon the coat-of-arms of their founders, the Harrow arms being based upon the arms of John Lyon of Preston, or the lion rampant. He had lands in Hertford.

Here and there appear early Lyon representatives in various counties; but these must be passed by; as also the various parish registers and other references of later years. A partial list is offered here for the pleasure of the curious. Lipscomb's Buckingham; Chauncy's and Clutterbuck's Hertford; Lyson's Environs of London; Familiae Minorum Gentium; Misc. Genealogica et Heraldica; Herts Genealogist; Reitstap's Armorial General—for Lyon arms in France; York Wills; Lincoln Wills and Marriages; Northampton Wills; Parish Registers of Leeds, York, Solihull, Warwick, Stratford-on-Avon Moulton, Northampton, Ipswich, Suffolk, London Parishes.

The Lyon family lost, by gift or otherwise, their vast estates; but they have tenaciously clung to their distinctive names. William occurs as early as the second generation, and doubtless was bestowed in honor of the Conqueror. Henry, Richard and John appear tempo Henry II. and his sons, while the name Jeffrey (from Geoffrey of Normandy or Geoffrey or Anjou) failed to survive. These four names persist in every generation, and in any list far outnumber all others. The same may be said of Peter or Piers, but chiefly in the northern counties; the first mentioned being Peter de Leonibus of Derby, 12th century. Thomas is nearly as ancient, and quite as persistent, and these two quite likely owe their names to the apostles, or to intermarriage. Edward made its advent with Edward I.; while Nicholas and Adam are not popular today. George naturally does not occur till late, but took a firm hold.

If one were to judge from family names, any or all of the immigrants might have come from any of the midland or adjacent counties of England. The family of William of Roxbury claim Heston, Middlesex, as their home, and their claim appears good. Peter was most surely not immediately related to William; there is nothing to show that they were aware of each other's near presence. George was quite surely of the same family as Peter. There is reason, too, to believe that the first recorded George was the son of a prior immigrant who probably bore the same name.

Since the publication of vol. I., the Lancaster records have become accessible, and they furnish strong presumptive evidence that Peter and George were from that shire. Peter appeared at the time of the Great Lancastrian Migration, when the first settlers of Dorchester removed to Connecticut to make room for the flock of Richard Mather. This eminent divine came with his following from that part of Lancaster where the Lyon family was especially numerous, and where the parish registers read almost as antecedent pages of the records of the First Church of Dorchester. A comparison of these old-world lists with the List of Inhabitants in 1700 will show that nearly every name in the latter has its counterpart in the former; and this is especially true of those who were resident there during the middle of the 17th century. The evidence for a Lancastrian origin for Dorchester men appears very striking and almost conclusive.

The statement that the Connecticut families are of Scotch descent seems to require the Scotch verdict "not proven." They are much more likely to have been Lancastrian. There is presumptive evidence that Thomas at least had some connection with the Lyons of near Boston, and it may have been due to such connection that Thomas of "near Boston," who was killed in the Turner's Falls fight, has been confused with Thomas of Fairfield; the biographer of the Thomas Lyon Family should have something to say on that point. It is not at all likely that the 17th century Lyons of the various counties of England had knowledge of each other; while those of Lancaster and York may have had a vague idea, and so have handed down the tradition, that they were in some way related to the only Lyon family they knew about—the noble family of Strathmore, which, indeed, had a common origin with themselves. Moreover, the tradition that three Lyon brothers were on guard at Whitehall, and witnessed the execution of Charles I. very strongly militates against their being of Scottish blood; for the strong feeling of suspicion and dislike which the Puritan felt for the Scot at this time, and which culminated shortly afterward at the battle of Worcester, must have caused, at such a momentous time, some such order as "Put none but Ironsides on guard tonight."

Taking into consideration, then, all the data obtained at the present time, it is the opinion of the compiler that the special arms of Strathmore belong only to those descended from John of Glamis; that the lion sejant or couchant belongs only to a special Essex family, who appear also in southern England and in Ireland; that the lion passant belongs only to the immediate family of Sir John, the Lord Mayor; and that the original lion rampant, as borne in Norfolk, Northampton, and by John of Preston, is the common heritage of all the first settlers who bore the Lyon name.

THE EARLY LYON IMMIGRANTS TO AMERICA

For the benefit of readers of this volume who have not the complete series of the Lyon Memorial, a brief synopsis is here given of the facts connected with the transplanting to the New World of offshoots from the English Lyon family.

In the list of passengers that embarked for "Barbadoes" in the ship "Hopewell," Capt. Babb, February 12th, 1634, we find the name of John Lyon, aged eighteen years. It has been suggested that this was John, son of William and Anne (Carter) Lyon of Heston (now part of London), England, but this is not probable, since that John was baptized June 7, 1619, and so was probably not more than fifteen years old at the date above mentioned, and since his father was buried February 18, 1634, only six days after the sailing of the Hopewell. The assumption had been that the lad had set out to seek his fortune in a new country because he was left fatherless. It is, however, more than possible that the John Lyon who embarked for the Barbadoes 1634 was the same John Lyon who was taxed in Marblehead Mass. in 1637, and who in 1638 gave his note for payment of money to George Ching of Salem, Mass. We read that on 3. XI. 1644 (Jan. 3, 1645) John Lyon, with some companions in Salem, was fined for drinking wine and other offences. He was one of the proprietors of Salem 1649, and there after disappears from history. It is not known whether he had a family. No descendants are known, although there was a Lyon family in Marblehead in after years whose origin has not been otherwise accounted for. John Lyon, however, sold his property in Marblehead in 1653 (Essex Deeds), and seems to have returned to England. See memorial, Massachusetts Families, page 20.

The earliest Lyon immigrant of whom we have positive knowledge was William Lyon, who came to Roxbury, Mass. in 1635 on the ship "Hopewell," being then a lad of fourteen. He was from Heston, youngest son of William and Anne (Carter) Lyon. He received a grant of land in Roxbury in 1648 and acquired ultimately considerable landed property there; in 1645 became a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Roxbury; was made freeman in 1666 and died in 1692. He had interested himself in the new colony at New Roxbury, now Woodstock, Conn., and that became the principal seat of the family in the eighteenth century, although the family was also represented until after the Revolutionary War in Roxbury. In the dispersal which followed, members of the family established themselves in Colerain, Mass. (these writing the name Lyons) and in North Craftsbury, Vt. The family had also spread to Middleboro on the south and Royalston and Gageboro on the west, and from Woodstock northward into other Massachusetts towns. In later years, of course, there has been a wide dispersal of the family. Among the more distinguished members of the family may be mentioned Caleb Lyon, first territorial Governor of Idaho, and designer of the State seal of California; William H. Lyon, Indian Commissioner under General Grant and in several subsequent administrations, a well-to-do New York merchant; General Nathaniel Lyon, one of the most gallant soldiers that fought for the Union, and (almost certainly) Mary Lyon, founder of Holyoke College.

The next immigrants of the Lyon name were the two brothers (?) Peter and George of Dorchester, Mass. Peter Lyon is mentioned as a proprietor in Dorchester 1639, was freeman in 1649 and held public offices 1675-85. The family remained for several generations in the vicinity of Boston, in Milton, Stoughton, Needham, Newton, Taunton, etc., extending later into Vermont and Maine, and ultimately, like the other Lyon families, becoming widely dispersed. It furnished soldiers in the Colonial and Revolutionary wars. Among the distinguished names in its record perhaps the most prominent is that of Admiral Henry Ware Lyon, U. S. N.

Of George Lyon not very much is known beyond the fact that he was selectman in Dorchester 1645-7 and perhaps in 1661 and 1672, his record being probably confused with that of another George who was probably his son. His descendants lived in Dorchester, and Milton, Mass., and in Woodstock, Conn., but they seem to have been comparatively few in number.

In 1644 Richard Lyon was sent from England to Cambridge by Sir Henry Mildmay as a tutor for his son William. He, however, returned soon to England.

About 1648 there appeared in Fairfield Co., Conn. almost simultaneously three new immigrants bearing the name Lyon, presumably brothers. One of these, Thomas, was founder of the family treated of in the present volume, whose principal seat, in the early days, was in Westchester, Co., N. Y.

Henry Lyon, the most enterprising and forceful of the three "brothers," settled first in Milford, Conn., removed later to Fairfield, Conn., and finally joined the colony that established in New Jersey the town on the Pasaic to which the name Newark was afterwards given. The descendants of Henry Lyon were prominent in the early history of New Jersey, including several officers in the Revolutionary army. A branch of the family established itself at an early day in Rhode Island. Another removed to Ohio and aided in founding the city of Cincinnati. Still another, Rev. James Lyon, ardent patriot in the Revolution, planted the family name in Machias, Me.

Richard Lyon settled in Fairfield, Conn., about 1648-49, was free-man there 1664, commissioner for Fairfield 1669 and at his death in 1678 left an estate valued at £632. His descendants settled in Fairfield, Redding and neighboring towns, extending gradually northward into Massachusetts and Vermont. In the Revolution they were mostly loyalists, except those who had removed to Massachusetts and Vermont. From Vermont some of them found their way to Michigan—among these Hon. Lucius Lyon who represented the new State of Michigan as Senator in Congress 1837-39.

The families of Henry and Richard Lyon form the subject of the second volume of the Lyon memorial "Families of Connecticut and New Jersey."

The first volume, "Families of Massachusetts," contained the family histories of William Lyon of Roxbury and Peter and George Lyon, of Dorchester.

Another early Lyon immigrant, of whom perhaps too little is known, was Rev. John Lyon from Cork, who came to Taunton, Mass., in 1666.

Mention must be made, too, of the statement of Rev. Dr. Burhams (Churchman's Magazine, 1832) that the Richard Lyon who was the first churchman in Redding, Conn. was from Ireland. There is a possibility that the Episcopalian and loyalist Lyons of Redding and neighborhood were, after all, descendants of this Irish Richard and not of Richard of Fairfield.

Among the Lyon immigrants who arrived in the eighteenth century, special mention should be made of Matthew Lyon, "the redeemer," of whom there is a sketch in the Lyon Memorial "Massachusetts Families"; of a Jew Lyon family that came to New York City, and of John Lyon from Ireland who settled in 1763 in Mifflington, Pa., and was progenitor of many of the Lyons of Pennsylvania.

SYSTEM OF NUMBERING.

Each name has a serial number, printed in full-faced type, followed by Roman numeral, whose significance is obvious. Preceding the names which head the several paragraphs there are three numbers, the first the serial number of the person, the second, in Roman numerals, the number of the generation, the third the serial number of the person's father. By aid of these numerals, it is easy to trace back the ancestry of any individual mentioned.

An asterisk * preceding a serial number indicates that further information is to be found in the next generation.

THOMAS LYON OF RYE

THOMAS LYON "of Rye" was born in England§ about 1621, and died at Byram Neck, Greenwich, Fairfield Co., Conn. in 1690. He was buried in the old Lyon family burying ground at Byram Neck. He is supposed to have come first to the Massachusetts Colony, and thence to have gone to seek his fortune in the far west of Fairfield County, Conn., where at about the same time Richard and Henry Lyon, presumably his brothers or cousins,† appeared. His first wife was Martha Joanna Winthrop, a grand-daughter of Gov. John Winthrop, of Salem, Mass., and it is to Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, a lineal descendant of the Governor that we are indebted for nearly all the circumstantial knowledge we have of the life of Thomas Lyon. He made public in a communication to the Massachusetts Historical Society, of which he was for thirty years president, a number of letters found among the papers of Governor Winthrop, written by Thomas Lyon, his wife Martha (Winthrop) Lyon, and other members of the family.

Martha's mother, Elizabeth (Fones) Winthrop remained in England when her husband, Henry Winthrop came to America. He was drowned in Salem Harbor, July 2, 1630, the day after his arrival. She, with her infant daughter, Martha, came to America the following year. She did not remain long a widow. Her second husband was Robert Feake (Feeke, Feke, Fekes, Feeck, the name was variously written), one of the earliest and largest proprietors in Watertown, which he repeatedly represented in the Massachusetts General Court. After some years Mr. Feake removed with his family to Greenwich, Conn., where in 1640 he, with Capt. Daniel Patrick, purchased of the Indians a large tract of land. It appears that about this time he developed symptoms

§The statement which has been often repeated that Thomas Lyon was from Yorkshire, England, appears to have no foundation. It was probably a mere inference from the association of Thomas Lyon with John Banks, but the history indicates that this association was purely accidental. Possibly of more significance was the earlier association of Thomas Lyon with John Winthrop, who was from Suffolk, but this association may have begun in Watertown or Dorchester, Mass.

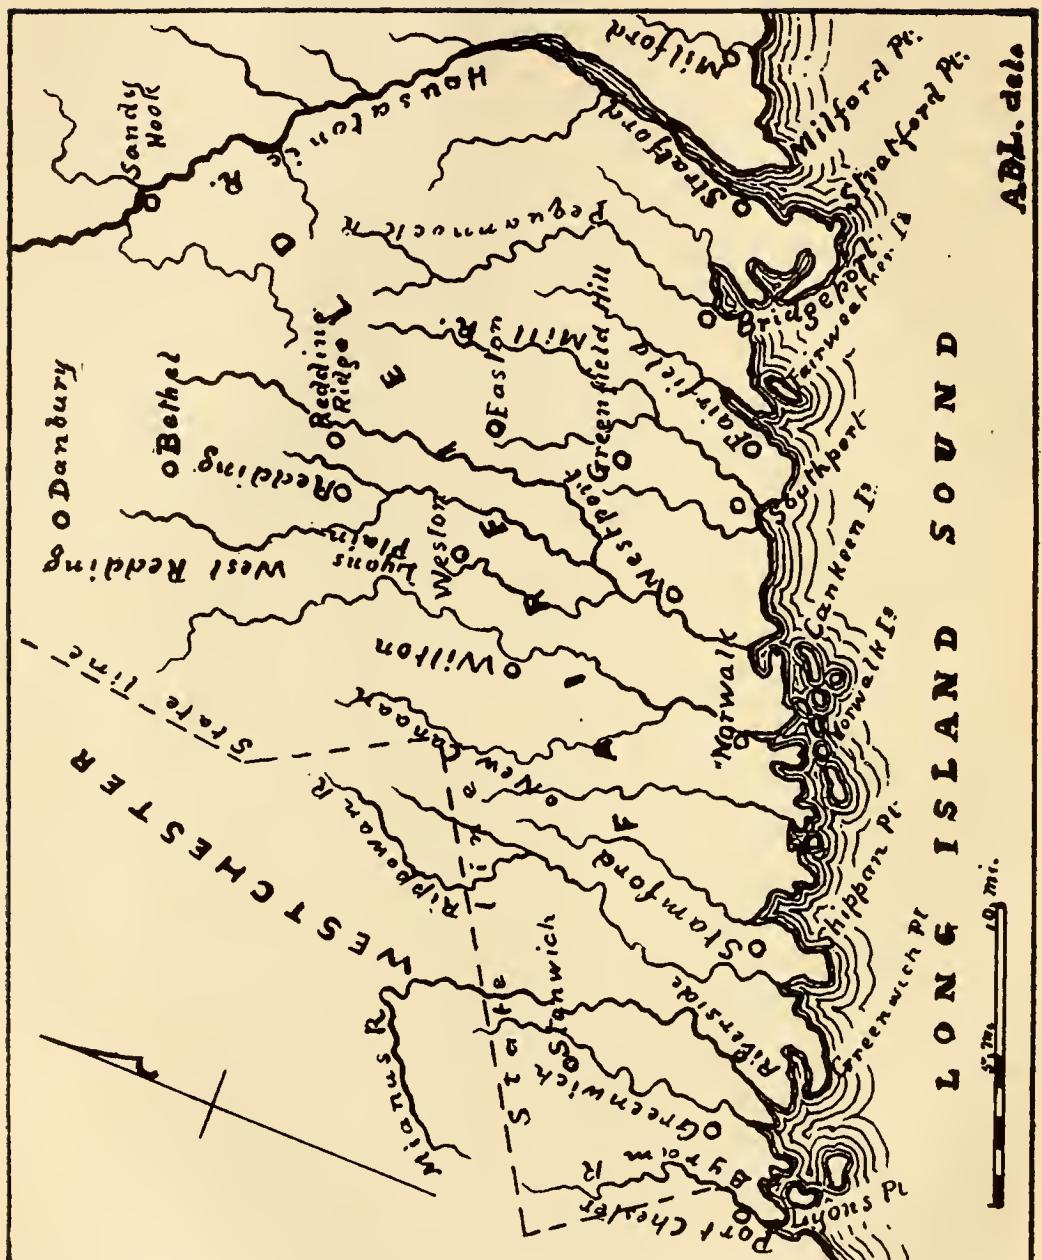

†Thomas Lyon was in Stamford as early as 1647; Henry Lyon in Milford 1649, Fairfield 1652, later in Newark, N. J.; Richard Lyon in Fairfield in 1649. That the families of Thomas and Richard were intimately related is shown by the fact that Abigail, daughter of Thomas Lyon married John Banks, Jr., while Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Lyon, married Benjamin a brother of John Banks Jr.

of a derangement of mind which ended in complete insanity. There may or may not have been estrangement between man and wife; at all events Mr. Feake returned to Watertown, leaving his family in charge of his business partner, Capt. Patrick. The gossips had it that the relations between Capt. Patrick and Mrs. Feake were more intimate than business required. However, these relations, whatever may have their nature, were brought to an abrupt close in 1643 by the death by assassination of Capt. Patrick. Mrs. Feake and her daughter continued to live in Connecticut (in the town Stamford), her business affairs being intrusted now to one William Hallett. At this juncture Thomas Lyon comes on the stage and assays the difficult role of son-in-law.

The first of the letters of Thomas Lyon made public by Mr. Winthrop was written at this time. It is addressed to the "Right Worshipfull Guovernor, Mr. Winthrop, at Boston." (See facsimile reproduction.)

From Stamford ye 25 August, 1647.

Endorsed, almost illegibly, "Sonne Lyon, ltr. about M. J. her right, 23 (7) 47 [Sept. 23, 1647].

In spite of its conventionalities of form, its crudities of expression, its occasional obscurities, the letter is a marvel of self-revelation. We have before us the New England pioneer living in an atmosphere of obtrusive but sincere piety, surrounded with perils of the wilderness, inured to hardship and toil, self-reliant, yet with an eye to the main chance. Commenting on this and the succeeding letters, Mr. R. C. Winthrop says: "As far as can be ascertained these letters constitute the earliest existing mention of Thomas Lyon in New England,, but they afford no clue as to his antecedents, except as showing by his hand writing, though difficult to read at the present day, that he was an educated man. On Aug. 25, 1647 he had not long been married, his means were small, he had acquaintances in Boston and was on good terms not only with the Winthrop family but with his wife's step-father Robert Feake." It may be added that they do not necessarily imply a previous residence in Salem or Boston, although they suggest the probability of this. The vagaries of spelling found in the letters are no indication of illiteracy since at that date the English language had no settled orthography. It need not surprise us at all that he wrote his own name sometimes "Lyon," sometimes "Lion." His contemporary, William Lyon of Roxbury, took even greater liberties with the name, writing his signature "Lyon," "Lion" or "Ljon," and neglecting often to capitalize the initial L.

The object of the first letter appears to have been to intimate that any bequests intended for the grand daughter should be made directly to her and not to her mother, for reasons easy to understand. In the succeeding eight months the situation went from bad to worse. Mrs. Lyon was in delicate health. It seems to have been intimated by some one that she was not cared for as tenderly as she should have been by her husband. Mrs. Feake, although not divorced from her husband, had become the wife of Mr. William Hallett, and complications had naturally arisen with regard to the disposition of the Feake estate.

Thomas Lyon to John Winthrop, Sr.,
From Stamford ye 14 April 1648.

Loving Granfather—My humble duty remembered unto you. This is to aquaint you that I have received your kind token you sent to my wife as a gowne and petecote and savegards, which I humbly thank you for. They stand my wife in great sted. For my own part, I am willing to doe for my wife to the utermost of my power, but she being is such condition, not able to helpe her selfe, makes me doe and suffer that which otherwise I might not; but my trust is in the Lord who had apointed us to com together. He can help and releive those that wayt upon Him, as experiance shows. Although I am base in degree to you, and poore, yet that you should look upon me to helpe me the goodness of God is great. As for your good counsell, I humbly thanke you. The Lord inable [me] to follow it, that soe I might make my wife's life as comfortable as I can in her condition. As for my wife she is worse and worse, soe that is a great hindrance to me, having but little but my labour, and cannot git a helpe for her, they being all so scarce here.

Concerning my wife's mother, she hath delt very harsh with me, withholding my right from me in severall cases. The reason as I conceive and noe other, I shall tell you. When I married first, I lived in the house with her, because, my father† beeing destracted, I might bee a helpe to her. Whereupon seeing severall carages betwene the felow she now hath to be for husband and that the people allsoe tooke notic of it (which was to her disgrace) which greved me verie much,—and I can say as the Lord knowes, her fall hath been the greatest greefe and trouble to me that ever com by other,—and after long time heering and seeing what condition she were in I spake to her about it privately and after I discovered my dislike, I see her carage alter toward me.

the name, writing his signature "Lyon," "Lion" or "Ljon," and neglecting often to capitalize the initial L.

The object of the first letter appears to have been to intimate that any bequests intended for the grand daughter should be made directly to her and not to her mother, for reasons easy to understand. In the succeeding eight months the situation went from bad to worse. Mrs. Lyon was in delicate health. It seems to have been intimated by some one that she was not cared for as tenderly as she should have been by her husband. Mrs. Feake, although not divorced from her husband, had become the wife of Mr. William Hallett, and complications had naturally arisen with regard to the disposition of the Feake estate.

And haveing profered divers times to the utermost of my power to help her to take care of her estate, either in the house with her or in a house by her, haveing soft all menes that were lawfull, both betweene she and I—allsoe, when nought would prevale, before witnes—that soe she might gaine her name, bring glory to God, and part with the felow; yet nothing would pervale, but the more I desired her to part with the felow, the more I see that she were against mee. But however I hope I shall have a clere consiance toward her before God that I have not been the cause in the leest by my neglect, but to relate were tedious. However, I am sorow for the sad efect she hath brought upon her selfe in generall, and now more partickuler that none of her former freinds will scarce look upon her, which I desier the Lord would lay it open to her if at the last there may be hopes, and I desire my selfe and others may take notis of her fall that soe it may be gaine to others. My wife remembers her duty unto you and to all the rest of her freinds in generall, with thanks to you for your gifts sent to her and likewise to all her freinds to their kindness. I thought to have writ to my Uncle John Winthrop, but the time is.....[torn]
.....I shall not.

Farther concerning the condition she is in. My father Feeke going away sodingly, having taken no course about the children and estate, only deseired a friend of his, and I, in case wee see them about makeing away the estate and to remove, wee should stay it—allsoe sending a letter to same effect, from Watertown—wee sent for counsell what wee should do. Wee were advised to stay it according to my fathers order; whereupon wee sent to the Dutch Governor, and went allso, that the estate might be stayed according to my father's desier. My mother and William Hallett coming there, there were som complaints made against them, their living together; whereupon the Gov. ordered that the estate should be preserved for the children and my father upon his land at Greenwidg. It were farther ordered that my mother should live with her children having the benyfit of comfortable to live on, if she continewed there. If she did not stay there, she was not to carie away any of the estate nor children; likewise William were to depart the jurisdiction. But when they were returned to

Greenwidg because the fellow might not live there, my mother in law came hither with him, bringing away the children and estate, which we have seized on. Allsoe sence she came here she hath openly confessed she is married to him, is with child by him; and she hath been at New Haven but could have no comfort nor hopes for present to live in the jurisdiction, and what will become of her I know not. She is resolute in her course or else I think if she would leave William, she might stay here, and for the present they are in an unsettled condition, not knowing what to doe; and wee have had much trouble concerning the estate and yet it is not settled, for wee know not how to dispose of the children, for the estate is sould and wasted by their menes and charges comd on it, soe that it will not be soe good as my father left it neither will it maintayne the children except they be put forth. I could desier that my Uncle John would make a voyage hither and see if hee could settle things for the best, for the children and the estate spedely. The occasion of my writing is to informe you of the truth, lest you might be informed otherwise. If my Uncle John Winthrop would com, it would be very good. I humbly intreat you to speke with him about it, for the children and the estate suffer. Or I would intreat you to send by this bearer your mind what you think will be best.

I intreat your favour to aquaint him, how things are that I could desier (as the case stands) he would make a jorney hither spedely. Likewise let me intreat you soe much because I shall not write to him at this time as to tell him I would intreat him to conseedere the state of the place here and helpe me with a couple of sithes and a sickell or two against harvest, for here is none to bee got, and I shall send such pay as the cuntry doth afford, as whete; for if I had such things it would help me to get much that now I cannot. Oure thoughts are for the present to see to the Dutch Governor if he will resine the part of the Estate there in our hands soe wee might have it all improved at Greenwidg upon the land. I intreat you would be pleased to let me heere from you spedely, soe in hast I rest

Your dutyfull and obedeant grandsonn
Thomas Lion.

In a postscript, after giving details of the complications that had arisen about the disposition of the Feake estate he says: "there is 300 acres of land which were given to my wife by my father and Captaine Patrick. I intreat you to write to the Dutch Governor who has taken the land away, that soe I may not lose my right." [This may have an important bearing on the validity of the claim put in after his death by his daughter, Mary Wilson].

Letter indorsed by Governor Winthrop "Sonne Lyon, 14 (2) 48" [April 14, 1648].

Incidentally we see how the conflict of authorities—those of Connecticut and New Amsterdam—helped along with the Indians and the sanctimonious cussedness of Puritan human nature to make life interesting to the frontiersman. The letters from the invalid wife—a person evidently to whom the hardships of the pioneer life were a new and overwhelming experience—will be read in this connection with "pertickquler" interest. It may be noted that they were penned by an amanuensis.

To her loving and kinde Uncle Mr. John Winthrop liveing at Pequot this d. d.

Martha Johanna Lyon died probably 1854 when Thomas removed from Stamford to Fairfield.

A family trait which characterizes many of the descendants of Thomas Lyon, found expression in his adoption of the principles of the Society of the Friends. It called for no common courage for a man in those early days to avow himself a Quaker. Both in Connecticut and in Ney York the authorities dealt severely with advocates of the new heresy. We read that in 1657 a ship arrived in New Amsterdam having on board several of the "accursed sect" called "Quakers." They had been banished from Boston and were on their way from Barbados to Rhode Island "where all kinds of scum dwell," as Dominie Magapolenses expressed it. Two women of the company, who ventured to parade their seditious doctrines in New Amsterdam were thrust into the common prison, their hands bound behind them, and kept there until the ship which brought them was ready to sail for Rhode Island. One of their number, Robert Hodgson, went to Hempstead, L. I., where, it is said, there were already a few Quakers living. He was seized, tied to the tail of a cart and so driven back to the city where he was sentenced to a heavy fine and to imprisonment "in a filthy jail" two years, to be chained to a wheelbarrow with a negro who was charged to lash him with a heavy tarred rope. Such inhumanities no doubt made converts of many who otherwise might have been indifferent to the doctrines of the new sect. Of such metal no doubt was the yeoman, Thomas Lyon§. When the inevitable persecution came, for giving adhesion to the new seditious doctrine, it was not he who was first to utter complaint. It is his wife who writes thus to Gov. John Winthrop, Jr.

Faierfeild, Juen the 22, 1668.

Honerd Sir:—My husband being from home, I am bould to present you with my present greivance. We have seven children, fouer of them small. Last year they took away an ox for half a year. Senc they fined us six pound moer, and for that have soulde the greater part of our home lot. Now honerd sir, I have noe man but yourselfe whom God hath impowrd to redres this great opreshern. My husband can not act aganes his conscience. They are resolved in theyer way. Thus hoping you will consseder my distres, I rest

Thomas Lyon himself wrote a letter shortly afterwards "To the worshipfull Mr. John Winthrop, Governor of Connecticut Colony," in which he says: "You know my condition, which God of his grace has cald mee to, blessed be His name, and how I am delt with for it. God in his time, tho man be silant, will find a way to deliver,..... My goods is taken, my land divided, yett the Lord is my portion for ever, blessed be His name!" Signed "Your kinsman, Thomas Lyon."

§In this connection we must not forget that William Hallett, who had removed with his wife, the former Mrs. Feake to Hempstead, L. I., became prominent in the Society of the Friends. One of his daughters was an exhorter, and among the foremost leaders in the Society.

Indorsed "Tho. Lyon, rec. June 23, 1668." The seal of this letter has the initials T. L. in a monogram, a fact that it is worth while to put on record here.

The signature, with date, of the last letter in this series is here given for comparison with that of the first letter, in which the name is spelled Lyon, and with that of the will of Thomas Lyon. See fac-simile reproductions.

Confirmation of the statements made in the letters is found in a communication addressed to Governor Winthrop June 29, 1672, by the venerable William Coddington, who writes:

Road Island, 29d. 4 mo., 1672.

Now I shall in trew loue to thee relaite what is comed to me (I belieue thou was absent), & it was in thy Jurisdiction, & came to me in writing, viz: that some of our friends abute Rye or Greenage have had some of their good taken away because they could not goe to heare those teache which they knew was not sent of God, nore called by Christ Jesus vnto that worke which they pretend too, as theyer fruities doe manefest or other causes, which to them is matter of conscience, Thomas Lyon being one with some others. I desire thee to inform me of the trewth hereof. Those, for whatever I could larne, or heare, have lived vnspotted in that kind.

We find nowhere any evidence that Thomas Lyon identified himself permanently with the Quakers, or at any time adopted their peculiarities of speech and dress.

Of his personality little is known. He is described as a man of exceptionally fine physical development, being known in the neighborhood where he lived as "Thomas Lyon, the strong."

His first wife, as has already been noted, was Martha Johanna Winthrop (See appendix, note 1), daughter of Henry and Elizabeth (Fones) Winthrop, and grand daughter of Hon. John Winthrop, Governor of the Colony of Massachusetts in 1629, 1630, 1637, 1642 and 1646. She was born in Groton Manor, England, May 9, 1630, and died in Stamford, Conn., probably about 1653. In 1652 Thomas Lyon bought a house and lot in Stamford of William Potter (See appendix, note 2). It is probable that his wife, Martha, was still living at that time. May 11, 1654, he purchased of Thomas Shervington a house and lot at Fairfield, and this fixes approximately the date of his second marriage[§]. This house he sold Nov. 1, 1675 to Daniel Frost, and on Feb. 13, 1676, he, with John Banks, Sr., of "Fayrefield" acquired title to a "sartaine parsell of land in Greenwich, lying by Byram River and by estimation three score ackers." It is recorded that previous to this "the towne had granted unto Mr. John Banks, senior, of Fayrefield, as Thomas Lyon's attorney, a sartaine parcell of land lying in Greenwich on the lower end of Byram neck, by estimation three hundred ackers." It was this land, "Elizabeth Neck," that was later claimed by the daughter of Martha (Winthrop) Lyon, Mrs. Mary (Lyon) Willson, as rightfully her inheritance. Into the merits of that controversy it is not necessary to enter, but it is interesting to note that in the original deed "by Amogerone Sachem of Asamuck and Rammathone [and] Nawhorone, sachems of Patomuck, to Robert Feaks and Daniell Patricks" of Greenwich lands, Elizabeth Neck "by ye Indians called Mona Kewego" is expressly excepted "which neck is ye particular perchace of Elizabeth Feaks, ye sd Robert Feaks his wife, to be hers and her heaires or assigns forever." See appendix, note 3.

This item is from the Town Record of Rye, under date March 5, 1676: "The Towne of Rye adopted the following. Thomas Lyon and Thomas Brown are appointed to choose a house or place to be fortified for safety of the towne." See appendix, note 4. Mr. Winthrop says that it is believed that it was this Thomas Lyon who served as a colonial soldier from Connecticut and remarks that his expressions in the letter of Aug. 25, 1647 in relation to his possible death would tend to confirm that theory. In Schenk's History of Fairfield

[§]There is record also under date Jan. 12, 1658, of the purchase by Thomas Lyon of two lots of land in "ye Newfield" from Andrew Ward, and of a lot, also in "ye Newfield," from Symon Hoyt of Stamford, the total amount of these purchases about 14 (?) acres. (Fairfield Land Records, Lib. A., p. 92).

we find the following statement: The soldiers engaged in the Pequot war of 1637-8, who afterwards settled at Fairfield were:

Roger Ludlow	Thomas Lyon
Dr. Thomas Pell of Saybrook	John Wood
James Eggleston	Thomas Bassett
Nehemiah Olmstead	Samuel Gregory
William Hayden	Richard Osborne.

No authority for the statement is quoted. If the record is authentic we must conclude either that Thomas was a mere boy when he joined the force sent to chastise the Pequots, or that he was of unusually mature age when he married Martha Johanna Winthrop—or else that there were two Thomases. The last alternative is worthy of consideration, although there is nothing in the Winthrop correspondence to bear out such a hypothesis. We know that there was a Thomas Lyon who was killed in the battle at Turners Falls, 1667. Savage supposed that it was Thomas of Fairfield and Rye. It is possible that it was the Thomas of the Pequot war, if there were any such Thomas.

The early settlers of Stamford came from Watertown, Dorchester, and other places near Boston, at first by way of Wethersfield. Is it not more than possible that the Thomas Lyon who in 1647 is of Stamford, with acquaintances in the vicinity of Boston, was related to Peter and George Lyon of Dorchester—possibly a brother? The question is merely suggested. It may be possible some day to answer it authoritatively in the affirmative or negative.

Thomas Lyon married for his second wife, about 1654, Mary Hoyt, daughter of Simon Hoyt, of Stamford, Conn., by whom he had four sons and four daughters. See appendix, note 5.

During the latter years of his life Thomas Lyon, although living probably in Greenwich at Byram Neck, is spoken of as "of Rye," this place being just the other side of Byram river in New York—the place now being called Port Chester. In a list of the inhabitants of Rye in 1683, the name Thomas Lyon appears twice repeated—father and son no doubt. The name Lyons Point, written also Lions Point, applied to the point at the mouth of Byram River, was in common use as early as 1683.

The will of Thomas Lyon was dated Dec. 6, 1689, and probated at Fairfield with inventory of estate, September 7, 1690. See facsimile reproduction.

3. II. 1. MARY² LYON (STEDWELL) (WILSON) [Thomas¹] was born in Stamford, Conn. in Aug. 1649 (her mother, Martha J. (Winthrop) Lyon writes Sept. 2, 1649, of her "late comfortabell deliverance of a dafter, which is a hopeful child"); the date and place of her death have not been ascertained. She inherited from her mother a delicate constitution, and because of her "sad condition" of health, she was sent in 1668 to visit her uncle, Governor John Winthrop, Jr., who was living at that time in Hartford. This event no doubt had much to do with shaping her subsequent life. Little, however, is known of the details of that life. She is said to have married first Joseph Stedwell of Rye and second, before Nov. 1691, John Willson of Bedford, afterwards of Rye.

She received by her father's will only an equal share with her sisters in the movable property. She believed that since a portion of the land her father had owned came to him through his marriage with Martha Winthrop, she was entitled to more than that[§], and she pushed her claims in the courts, appealing at last to the General Assembly of Connecticut. The petition was for a restitution of three hundred acres of land claimed to have been originally the property of Mrs. Feake, Martha Winthrop's mother. The record reads: "This Court having heard and considered said petition doe order that the sons of said Lyon, viz: Samuel and Joseph Lyon doe pay the sume of fiftie pounds in currant money of this Colony, to be paid within the space of one year unto said John and Marie Willson, the said John and Marie Willson giving them quitt claim to land aforesaid, and in failure thereof said John and Marie Willson may take out an execution against so much of the land aforesaid as may satisfie the said sume." (Colonial Rec. Conn. IV. p. 424; date May 13, 1703). Oct. 11, 1705, there is record of the issuing of such execution (Col. Rec. Conn. IV. p. 531). See appendix, note 6.

A more amicable transaction is recorded June 24, 1737, when certain lands at Horseneck were transferred by Thomas Lyon, John Willson, Jonathan Lyon, David Lyon and John Lyon, all of Greenwich, to Thomas Close (Greenwich T. R. V. p. 13.).

4. II. 1. ABIGAIL² LYON (BANKS) [Thomas'], born Fairfield, Conn., about 1654; died before Nov. 1713† (date of settlement of estate of her brother Samuel). She married in Stamford, Conn., April 3, 1672, John Banks, son of John Banks, Sr., of Fairfield. See appendix, note 7. John Banks, Jr. died July 14, 1699 (Savage). Distribution of estate May 4, 1703; to widow Abigail Banks her dowry and one-third the personal estate; four sons and two daughters; widow Abigail guardian

[§]This seems to have been an after thought, for on Nov. 4, 1691, John Willson and Mary Willson gave quit claim to the executors and administrators of the estate of Thomas Lyon for any demands by reason of any legacy due by the will of the deceased, or any other demand which is or may be [made] by us on said estate. 5. II. 1. JOHN² LYON [Thomas¹], born, probably at Fairfield, Conn., about 1655, and died in Greenwich in 1736. He lived with his brother Samuel on the undivided estate left by their father, Thomas Lyon. The name of his wife has not been ascertained. John Lyon was deputy to the General Court of Connecticut from Fairfield, Conn., 1725-1730. Feb. 27, 1698-9, at a meeting of the proprietors of the town, it was agreed "that we doe impower the aforesaid men (Hecaliah Brown, Deliverance Brown, John Merritt, Robert Bloomer and John Stockham) to bargain with and sell unto John Lyon a certain tract of land lying up Byram river, if they shall see good and convenient soe to doe," and to John Lyon was confirmed "a parcel of land lying against the mill between the cartway down into the Neck and the mill creek bounded up the said creek by John Hoit's meddow and to run down to the said Creek till it comes to John Boyd's meddow, provided the said John Lyon doe not praidice the carte way into the neck, nor the way to the mill, neither shall hee hinder any person from settin up thare field fence if they have occasion." At a town meeting held Sept. 20, 1697, Capt Theall, John Horton, Joseph Purdy, Hecaliah Brown, John Lyon, Thomas Merritt and Isaac Denman were chosen a committee "for the management and carrying on of the worke of building a meeting house for the towne of Ry, and also for the appointing of a place where it shall set, and the above meeting house shall not acsed above thirty square feet." The seating space of this place of worship speaks for the size of the congregation, which doubtless comprised every family in the settlement.

In April 1699, John Lyon and Isaac Denman were chosen to lay out a road to White Plains, "beginning at the head of Capt. Theall's land and so to run to the caseaway (causeway) brook," said road to be three rods in breadth. July 14, 1710, John Lyon signed a quit claim for all obligations due him from his brother Joseph; witnesses Richard Ogden and John Stockham. Feb. 1714 ("one thousand seven hundred and thirteen fourteen") John Lyon, Sr., living at Byram in the Town of Greenwich, deeded to his son Daniel Lyon of the same place his dwelling house and home lot, with all his lands and meadows on "Byrum Neck" not already disposed of to his son John Lyon, Jr.; John Corbit witness. His will (Stamford Probate Rec. Lib. I. p. 115) was dated Jan. 24, 1736; executors John Merritt and Samuel Brown; witnesses Johannes Dow, David Lyon, George Gorham. He bequeathed to Caleb Lyon, son of his son Thomas, deceased, one half the mill in Greenwich, with one half the lands pertaining to it, he to pay to his sister, when he should come of age, £30 current money; Thomas, brother of Caleb to have the other half of the mill property; to his son John the western and to his son Daniel the eastern half of the land at Byram Neck already deeded to them, Daniel to have also the lands on "Mary's Hill." (In case Daniel died leaving no male heir the lands bequeathed to him were to go to James Lyon, son of John, Jr.) The moveable estate to be divided equally between "my four daughters, Ruth, Mary, Hannah and Jude." Thomas Lyon was a member of Colonel Robert Hunter's Company of Fuleseers, mustered in New York and Westchester counties on February 24, 1711 for 61 days' service on the Canadian frontier (Booth's Hist. New York City).

8. II. 1. JOSEPH² LYON [Thomas¹] was born in Greenwich, Conn., about 1677 and died in Rye, N. Y., Feb. 21, 1761, in his 84th year.

His wife's name was Sarah, parentage not ascertained. He owned and operated a grist mill† on Blind Brook, and purchased from the original proprietors of Rye Neck, Joseph Budd, John Hought (Hoyt) and Daniel Purdy, a lot of thirty acres in addition to the estate inherited from his father. In 1711 he was one of the vestrymen elected by the parish of Rye (established 1695).§ In 1729 his name appears with that of his brother John among the signatures to a grant of land to the Presbyterian Society as a site for a church building. In †Rye from early times rejoiced in a considerable number of mills for which the numerous streams afforded excellent facilities. Of these we find fifteen or twenty in operation before the Revolution. The first established were grist mills. John Budd's, afterwards known as Lyon's Mill, on Blind Brook Creek, was built sometime before the year 1669. Not long after the Mill on the opposite side of Rye Neck was built by the same proprietor on Mamaroneck River. In 1696 Samuel Lane and Joseph Lyon received permission to build a Mill on Blind Brook, the location of which is supposed to be that now occupied by Park's Mill. This was long known as Bloomer's Mill.

§His fellow vestrymen were Andrew Coe, John Merritt, Sr., Daniel Purdy, Thomas Purdy, Thomas Merritt, Jr., George Lane, Jr., John Disbrow of Mamaroneck, George Kniffin, John Miller of Bedford and Joseph Cleator Clark.

the Blind Brook Cemetery at Rye Neck is found a tombstone, elaborately carved after the ancient fashion, bearing the inscription: "In Memory of Mr. Joseph Lyon who deceased Feb. the 21st, A. D. 1761, in the 84th year of his age. He gave the land for the cemetery."

His will, dated Oct. 10, 1752, probated March 12, 1761, mentions wife Sarah, daughters Phebe, wife of Samuel Miller, Amy, wife of Godfrey Haines and Annie, wife of Elisha Budd; also grandsons Joseph, Elisha and Sylvanus (Merritt), children of deceased daughter Mary, and grandson Jonathan Budd. For full text, see note 10 in appendix.

Joseph's widow Sarah died Jan. 26, 1769 in the ninetieth year of her age; buried in Blind Brook Cemetery. Her will was dated April 8, 1767, proved Jan. 30, 1769 before Caleb Fowler, Surrogate of Westchester Co., N. Y. (Probate Rec. XXI. p. 647).

Being "at present in good health and sound mind" bequeathes to her daughters Phebe Miller and Amy Haines to be equally divided, her household goods, furniture and wearing apparel; to each of children [not named] of daughter Anne Budd, deceased £10; the greater part of the remainder of the property to go to daughters Phebe Miller and Amy Haines and to grandsons Joseph Merritt and Sylvanus Merritt, and to grandson William Miller. "I order that my negroes have a fortnight to look their masters in, and not to be forceably sold under a month after my decease." Executors, grandsons Joseph Miller and William Miller. †Elisha Budd was a descendant (probably a grandson) of John Budd, the immigrant. The Budd family (from Normandy) were in Rye, co. Sussex, Eng., during the Norman conquest. Jean Budd was a soldier under Charles the Great and Richard his grandson (son of William) was rewarded by the Duke of Normandy for his valor. John, son of Richard, was created Earl of Sussex by William the Great, whose sister he married. John, his son, married Kathlene Brown, a descendant of Sir Anthony Brown of the Montague family. He was born at Rye, Eng. about 1600 and came to New Haven Conn., with his wife and two sons John and Joseph, 1652. He went to Southold, L. I., where he bought lands and was one of the original proprietors of the town of Brookhaven in 1655. In 1661 he purchased a tract of land in Rye, N. Y., on which he settled. He was deputy to the General Court at Hartford in 1663.

‡In 1847 Dr Thomas Lyon (No. 373) of Morristown, N. Cornelius Jacobs, Jr. enlisted at the begining of the Revolutionary war and served until its close. He was one of General Washington's body guard, and, being a light man and a bold rider, was much employed in carrying despatches. At the close of the war he was paid off in worthless Continental money. In April 1811 he left Dutchess County, where he had been residing, to join his brother in law, David Lyon, in Oxford. The journey on horseback over the newly opened Catskill Turnpike consumed four days. He found a place for his family in a log cabin near South Oxford, but on his way back was taken sick at Durham, Green Co., and died there before his wife could reach him. She was thus left a widow with a large family to begin pioneer life in the wilderness. She however heroically carried out to a successful issue the difficult task of rearing and providing for her numerous offspring, presumably with the aid of the three older boys.

Married Sarah Woolsey about 1796. He and three brothers, Charles, Daniel and Samuel and sister Clara Lyon (Seeley) moved to Bainbridge, Chenango Co., N. Y. about 1803. The four brothers settled on farms adjoining each other that included a half section, about 320 acres, purchased by their father for them. The father continued to hold the title in his own name to insure against the sons divesting themselves of the land. The sister Clara, who married Harry Seeley, had her home three to four miles distant, on the Susquehanna River, about one mile above Bainbridge village. The four brothers lived all their long lives upon the farms where they first settled and all reared large families: William 12, Charles 12, Daniel 5, Samuel 13. The sister, Clara Seeley, continued in her home and reared 7 children. The four homes now in 1906, more than one hundred years after their settlement, are owned by descendants, and all but the Daniel Lyon place still of the Lyon name.

William married Sarah Woolsey about 1796. He was a Whig in politics; both were Methodists. Three children were born to them at Bedford and nine at Bainbridge. Eleven grew to adult years. Nine married and had homes near them, and children were born to eight of them while the grandparents lived. Sally, the youngest, married and Hannah, unmarried, continued at the homestead as long as father or mother lived. He died Sept. 2, 1844, she Oct. 20, 1849 aged 73 years. Both were buried in the homestead burial plot. This plot includes graves of children and grandchildren. It is enclosed by stone wall and is well cared for by Horace Lyon and his son, Hudson Horace, and their families, who now have this homestead.

Horace, son of Charles, and Deborah Lyon Doolittle, daughter of Samuel, are all that, of their generation, in 1907, survive of the forty-two children of the four brothers who came to Bainbridge a century and four years before. There were fifty-four grandchildren. Ten of them served in the Union army in the Civil war.

1313. VII. 677. WILLIAM⁷ LYON [William⁶, Israel⁵, Israel⁴, Jonathan³, Thomas², Thomas¹], was born at Bainbridge N. Y., Oct. 8, 1817. Little Bill was the name that distinguished him from his father. This implies that William Sr. was a large man. William Jr. was average size. He was quick in movement and alert in business and acquaintance with men. Aug. 8, 1840 he married Julia Hendrick, daughter of Leontes Hendrick of Coventry, N. Y. Both he and she had been teachers of the public school near his home. Deborah Lyon Doolittle, in 1906 one of the only two survivors of the 42 born to the four Lyon brothers first at Bainbridge, tells now that she attended school to both of them. They lived at Masonville, and at Bainbridge on the Davis farm. In 1850, soon after the death of his mother, he bought the Wm. Lyon homestead. He quickly appropriated for it the best methods and appliances for farming. In 1854 he sold the farm to his cousin Horace Lyon (No. 1343). Horace is the other one of the two survivors of the forty-two. He has for more than fifty years maintained the place in high culture. His son, Horace Hudson Lyon, is with him, and is a frequent writer for agricultural papers, about the practical work done there. The good wife of H. H., Mrs. Jeannette Gladstone Lyon, a relative of Wm. H. Gladstone, and a sister Miss Mary E. Lyon, help to make the home and to augment the pleasure and interest in the ancestral place.

William, in 1851, purchased 300 acres in the woods of Sweden, Pa. In March 1852, two years preceding his sale of the homestead, he moved to the new place. Three men, one of them a nephew, Richard Bush, went along to help a year on the work. Randolph Burdick, husband of his sister Sarah, went later the same year to build their barn. Thus is evinced the interest of William to draw his friends near to him. He was always a total abstinent of tobacco and intoxicating liquors. The building of that barn gave occasion to show his mettle and resourcefulness. The neighbors informed him that the barn could not be raised without whiskey. Their view was a widely prevalent one. They came from four miles to the raising. Some of them brought a supply of whiskey for him to accept if he would. Otherwise their help would be withheld. The work went on with a small force that raised the first bent to position of hardest lift, where, for a long time it halted, while the others looked on at their efforts. William said he would send as far as New York state, if need be, to hire men, but there would be no whiskey. About the middle of the afternoon a four horse team with help from Coudersport, eight miles distant, came to the rescue, and everybody joined in raising that barn. This was more than fifty years ahead of equal courage in general to exclude the liquors from banquets at the White House.

He bought horses in Ohio and brought by wagon road to the market east. He handled sheep and other stock. With his busy life he found time and place to be a Christian. When Sunday came his driving, different from the prevailing custom, was always suspended. He would be at the school house meetings, two miles distant, or drive the eight miles to church at Coudersport. He was a Methodist. Mrs. Lyon was Baptist. They had in the home an altar of prayer, and in which the farm help shared. Both were good readers of the Bible. Both made occasions to open up this book to their boys; and so well did they do it that they were often importuned to read more.

William Lyon was quick to be in touch with men throughout the county who were interested in the antislavery issue, and in church and educational work. Ministers, editors, teachers and any who loved these things, were frequent visitors to their home in the woods.

From the midst of vigorous and busy life he was suddenly stricken. His death, which occurred Aug. 18, 1856, was due to exceedingly exhausting effort to reach and attend his brother Caleb, who died a few days before. Mrs. Lyon died Feb. 22, 1876.

1408. VII. 723. HON. WILLIAM PENN⁷ LYON [Isaac⁶, Thomas⁵, Daniel⁴, Jonathan³, Thomas², Thomas¹], born Oct. 28, 1822, in the town of Chatham, N. Y.; married Nov. 18, 1847, Adelia Caroline Duncombe, who was born July 13, 1826 at St. Thomas, Ontario. She was daughter of Dr. Elijah Ely Duncombe† (b. March 15, 1795 in Delaware Co., N. Y., moved to St. Thomas, Ontario about 1824; died there in 1870), and Katharine Bonck (born Feb. 6, 1802; died 1860). They reside (1906) at Edenvale, Calif. near their children, Mrs. Clara Hayes and William Penn Lyon Jr.

It can well be said of William Penn Lyon that he began at the lowest rung of the ladder and by his own efforts attained a prominent position in life. At eleven years of age he left the district school to work in his father's store near the little village of Rayville, N. Y., subsequently attending "select school" about one year, but the world was a school for him and every good book a teacher. At fifteen he was teaching a district school and later he was a clerk in a grocery store in the city of Albany, N. Y. Here outside of business hours he spent much of his time in attending the courts and sessions of the Legislature and in his mind now grew a desire that served as an incentive throughout his public career. In 1841 he moved with his father to Walworth Co., Wis. and lived there on a new farm. If in this wild country he forgot his ambition, it was of short duration, for one morning in early winter he set out to walk to Elkhorn, the County seat of Walworth Co., to borrow a law book that some one had promised to loan him. On his return home, stiff and sore from walking through the deep snow, he lay on his back with the book open, and now began the education in law of one who in after years lectured before the classes of the law department of the State University of Wisconsin, and whose published opinions as one of the associate justices of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin have become a part of the law of the land. He afterward studied law in the office of Judge George Gale of Elkhorn, Wis.; in the fall of 1845 he entered the office of Judge Charles M. Baker of Geneva, Wis., and in the Spring of 1846 he was admitted to the bar. Having been chosen one of the justices of the peace of the town of Lyons, he opened an office for the practice of his profession and the first twelve months brought him the munificent income of sixty dollars. From 1850 to 1855 he practiced in Burlington, Wis., when he was elected district attorney of Racine, Wis., and moved to Racine, Wis. He served two terms in the Assembly and was each time made speaker.

At the beginning of the rebellion he was commissioned captain of Co. K of the Eighth Wis. Infantry to rank from Aug. 1861. On Aug. 5, 1862, while in the hospital at Inka, Miss., he was promoted to the rank of Colonel of the Thirteenth Wis. A brief history of the part taken by his Company and regiment may be found in the Magazine of Western History, April 1887. On the eleventh of Sept. 1865, Col. Lyon was mustered out of service and was subsequently brevetted a brigadier general to date from Oct. 26, 1865. While at the front, Col. Lyon was chosen judge of the first judicial circuit of Wisconsin, entering upon his duties Dec. 1, 1865, and serving five years, when upon the death of Associate Justice Byron Paine he was appointed by Gov. Fairchild to fill the vacancy. In the following April he was elected by the people for the unexpired term. After serving two terms following two years as ex-officio Chief Justice, on Jan. 1, 1894, he retired from the Supreme Court. During these twenty-three years was performed his life work, and he feels a just satisfaction in his participation in preparing material for sixty volumes of the Wisconsin reports. The next two years were spent in California. In 1896, finding he was not ready to retire from the active duties of life, he accepted a position as member on the Wisconsin State Board of Control, of which he became President and remained such until he resigned in July 1903. Here in brief are the chief features of the career of a grand and noble man. A fuller account would tell in detail of his struggle to gain an education and the many events of his life as he made his way from one position of usefulness and honor to another, would tell of his disappointments and many successes, of his joys and sorrows, of the hazardous and thrilling events of the four years in the army and the work of his mature years and would tell of the peculiar qualifications that enabled him to fill with honor every position to which he was called.

after two years and he lives (1907) with his sister Rozilla Lyon Cornwall, in Hartford, Conn.

2046. VIII. 1313. GEORGE HENDRICK^s LYON [William¹, William², Israel³, Israel⁴, Jonathan⁵, Thomas², Thomas¹], was born at Bainbridge, N. Y., Oct. 27, 1844. At 7 years he and his two brothers, Farnham and Edward, came with their parents to Sweden, Pa., where a new home in the woods was made. Four and a half years later their father died, leaving six children, George, in his twelfth year, being the oldest. The large enterprises of their father could not be continued as he would have done, and the financial crisis which came on immediately after made a hard path for the mother and family to keep and make their home. The two boys, twelve and ten years old, the next spring in their sugar bush accomplished the work of making two hundred pounds of maple sugar. A neighbor learning about it cheered and said that was the biggest thing he ever knew for boys of their ages. At thirteen George became a member of the Baptist Church. His great grandmother Hendrick, who was spending a year at their home, grandfather Hendrick, and mother, with him, made four generations together holding the faith. Four winters at Coudersport, he attended the academy schools and paid board and tuition by doing chores, and caring for school rooms.

He served in Company K. 37th Pa. Militia at time Lee and his army invaded the state. Later he enlisted, a private in Co. F. 211th Regt. Pa. Vol., and served nine months till close of the war. This included two engagements, charging upon strong fortifications. One was the re-capture of Fort Steadman, and the other, April 2, in front of Petersburg, charging and taking the Confederate Fort, Mahone. He says: "After storming Fort Mahone we rallied in two charges further to adjacent works. I was four hours in the fight where, at from 200 feet apart to some of the time not more than twelve feet apart at opposite sides of partition walls, each side was trying to make the other keep guns and heads low. My blouse was ragged with bullet holes. I, myself, took five men prisoners, and later was made prisoner in turn. That proved to be an opportunity under escort, to see the Confederate retreat from Petersburg to Appomattox, and the surrender."

Seven years after the war was devoted at schools, interspersed with work at farming, teaching and surveying. He was graduated C. E. from Union College Schenectady, N. Y., with class of 1872.

Feb. 28, 1873, at North East, Pa., he married Sarah Paden, daughter of Hugh and Sarah (Dunn) Paden. One son, Paul Paden Lyon was born at North East April 18, 1874. Mrs. Lyon died at Bradford, Pa., Dec. 4, 1877. She was a woman of excelling worth and traits. Paul, emulating them, and growing up the chum of his father, has gained a large esteem widespread. G. H. Lyon has adhered closely to the work of civil engineer. Thirty years it has been in the Pennsylvania oil field except from 1893 to 1897 in West Virgiana. He was twice elected city engineer of Bradford, Pa. He was eleven years county surveyor, has been chief engineer of numerous railroads in and near the oil fields. Until 1882 he was Republican, since that a Prohibitionist.

In 1882 he changed from observance of Sunday, the first day, to the Seventh Day and in the Spring of 1883 he became a member of the Baptist Church, non resident, at Alfred, N. Y. In November following, Paul, his son, nine years old, was baptized, uniting with the same church. They have co-operated all the years since, in the church, politically, and now as civil engineers. Their engineering parties have always halted from their work on Seventh Day Sabbath. Both were delegates from Pennsylvania to the Prohibition National Convention in 1900 in Chicago. He says of their work, "Both have been in some measure successful in persuading leaders in the Prohibition Party to desist from proclivity to infringe religious liberty by Sunday laws; and to discern that a civil sabbath does not promote a hallowed Sabbath, and is not helpful to the church. To discern that a civil sabbath begets a holiday instead of a holy day. That making a compulsory idle day, by control that has not and cannot have supervision to make it a hallowed day, does make an idle day; and this idle day, this civil sabbath, more than has been suspected, fosters the liquor traffic."

G. H. Lyon till 1907 did not marry again. Announcement is now made of engagement to marry April 17, 1907, Miss Celina Bliss, daughter of John and Harriet (Spencer) Bliss. They were school friends at Belfast N. Y., 40 years ago. His home is at Mt. Jewett, Pa.

2558. IX. 2046. PAUL PADEN^o LYON [George H.^s, William^t, William^e, Israel^b, Israel^t, Jonathan^s, Thomas^z, Thomas¹], was born at North East, Pa., April 18, 1874. His mother died at Bedford, Pa., when he was 3½ years old. He had a home with his grandmother the greater part of each year, but with his father each winter till nine years old. After that all the time except in school was with his father. On his 16th birthday he was presented with a new surveyors' compass. He proceeded at once to good use of it, and was credited with being the youngest surveyor in the state. At eighteen he was given charge of one of three corps of men making survey for a pipe line from Bradford Pa. eastward to near the seaboard. This was wholly outside of his father's supervision. His work was so expeditious and satisfactory that he was retained in service several months at the best wages after the several parties were dismissed. In 1898 and '99 he spent one year prospecting in the Klondike gold field. Thousands were waiting in May below the Chilcoot Pass in the rush to be in the lead to go down the lakes and rivers by boats when the ice should break. Friends wanted to join with him, but decided they could not because of his decision not to run Sabbaths (Saturday). The exigency, they thought, required then to run every day. He made his trip single handed. He tied up every Saturday. His expertness at boating and use of charts brought him in two days ahead of his friends who would not wait for him. His prospecting was not remunerative except in knowledge gained of the country and of mining and methods. He returned the following spring.

Aug. 26, 1902, he married Adaline Bonham, daughter of Winfield Scott and Eva (Saunders) Bonham, at Shiloh, N. J.

He and his father co-operate, working together or separately, as engagements favor, at civil engineering. He is chief engineer for Timberlake Gold Mining Co., of Routt Co., Colorado, devoting part of his time to that work.

The Prohibitionists have twice made him their candidate for the legislature. He has served them since as secretary and later as chairman of the county committee. He is a good writer, speaker, and organizer, and everywhere gains friends. His home is Bradford, Pa.

Note 1.—LINEAGE OF MARTHA JOANNA WINTHROP.

ADAM¹ WINTHROP of Lavenham, co. Suffolk, Eng., about 1497 married Joanne Burton. Adam² Winthrop, born Oct. 9, 1498; died Nov. 9, 1562; m. in London July 20, 1534, Agnes Sharpe, daughter of Robert Sharpe, Gent. of Islington, co. Middlesex, Eng. Adam³ Winthrop, born Lavenham, Aug. 10, 1548; died Groton, Eng. March 28, 1623. He was auditor of Trinity College, Cambridge. He married as his second wife, Feb. 20, 1579-80 Anne, daughter and co-heir of Henry Browne of Edwardstone, co. Suffolk, Eng. She died April 19, 1629 (Manorial families of Suffolk). John⁴ Winthrop was born at Groton Manor, Eng., Jan. 12, 1587, and died at Boston, Mass., March 26, 1649. He was a lawyer and County magistrate who became a great Puritan leader and emigrated to New England, coming to Salem in the ship Arabella in 1630. He was elected on the passage Governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, and held that position of honor almost continuously until 1646. His first wife (married March 16, 1605) was Mary Forth, daughter and heiress of John Forth, Gent. of Great Stanbridge, co. Essex, Eng. She died June 26, 1615. He married second Dec. 6, 1615, Thomasine Clopton, daughter of William Clopton of Castellane near Groton. She died Dec. 8, 1616. April 29, 1618, he married Margaret Tyndall, daughter of Sir John Tyndall of Great Maplestead, co. Essex. She died June 14, 1647, and in December of that year he married as his fourth wife Martha (Rainsborough) Coytmore, widow of Thomas Coytmore, and daughter of Capt. William Rainsborough, R. N. By his first wife, Mary Forth, John Winthrop had: 1. John; b. Feb. 15, 1606; d. April 5, 1676; m. 1st Martha, daughter of Thomas and Anne (Winthrop) Fones; m. 2nd Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Edmund Reade of Wickford, co. Essex. 2. Henry; b. Jan. 20, 1607; d. July 2, 1630; m. John Winthrop had by his third wife, Margaret Tyndall: 1. Stephen; b. March 24, 1618; d. 1658; m. Judith, dau. Capt. William Rainsborough; 2. Adam; b. April 7, 1620; m. 1st, Feb. 1642, Elizabeth Grover; m. 2nd, Elizabeth Hawkins. 3. Deane, b. March 16, 1622; d. March 16, 1704; m. 1st, Sarah Glover; m. 2nd, Martha Mellows. 4. Samuel; b. Aug. 28, 1627; d. 1673-6; m. in Antigua, Elizabeth ——. (His granddaughter, Sarah, m. Henry Lyons of Antigua, whose great great grandson, Edmund, became Admiral Lyons, R. N., raised to the peerage as Baron Lyons in 1856, the father of Lord Lyons, British Minister in Washington 1858).

Henry⁵ Winthrop was baptized at Groton Manor, Jan. 20, 1607. At the age of twenty he went to the Barbadoes, but did not remain there very long. April 25, 1629, he married, in London, his cousin Elizabeth Fones, daughter of Thomas and Anne (Winthrop) Fones.[†] When Henry Winthrop, following his father, sailed from England in the month of April, 1630, he left his wife at Groton to come over subsequently with his mother, both being on the verge of maternity. Henry arrived on the ship Talbot in the harbor of Salem on July 1, 1630, and, as the ancient family records state the circumstances, on the following day he went on shore with the principal officers of the ship, and walking out to a place, now called by the Salemites Northfield, to view the Indian wigwans, they saw on the other side of the river a small canoe. He would have one of the company swim over and fetch it rather than walk several miles on foot, it being very hot weather, but none of the party could swim but himself and so he plunged in and as he was swimming over was taken with the cramp a few rods from the shore and drowned. His wife, with her infant daughter, came over on the ship Lyon which arrived Nov. 2, 1631, also bringing Governor John Winthrop's wife and others of the family. She afterwards became the wife of Captain Robert Feake of Watertown, who removed a few years later to Stamford, Conn. where he, with Capt. Daniel Patrick, had purchased land. Her daughter, Martha Johanna Winthrop, there married Thomas Lyon, and the young couple for a time lived with Mrs. Feake, whose husband had returned to Watertown. Captain Feake became insane and his wife, who seems to have had no strong affection for him, found a new "affinity" in the person of William Hallet who ultimately married her while Captain Feake was still living. Mr. Hallet settled afterwards at Hallets' Cove, L. I., joining the Society of the Friends. Greenwich Town Records have the following item (Lib. I. p. 168): Nov. 25, 1650 William Hallet of Greenwich in New Netherlands for 3 score and 10 pounds sells to Jeffere Ferris as his own and wife's right also ye lands purchased by Daniel Patrick and Robert Feke in New Netherlands. Signed, William Hallet; Elizabeth Hallet.

[†]Thomas Fones of London, an apothecary, married, Feb. 25, 1604, Anne Winthrop, born Jan. 16, 1585, died May 16, 1819; daughter of Adam and Anne (Browne) Winthrop of Groton and sister of Governor John Winthrop of Massachusetts. Thomas Fones died April 15, 1829.

Note 6.—CORRESPONDENCE AND RECORDS RELATING To Land Claimed By Mary (Lyon) Willson.

Letter from Mary (Lyon) Willson (No. 3) to her cousin Fitz John Winthrop. Cover and date torn off; probably written in spring of 1698. Honnered Sir

I have made bould to let you understand how I have been wronged. Sir, be plesed to know that the Indians about the year 1640, gave a parsal of land to my grandmother Mrs. Elizabeth Feke as by Grenwhich record may appear. My grandmother gave it to my mother Martha Johana Winthrop, to her and the heirs of her body, but my father haveing got the writing in his hand, and my mother was dead, my father haveing many children by a second wife and some persons in Grenwhich had the land which was my mothers is posesion, my father tooke thre hundred acres of land in another plase and it was recorded to him free and not on account of exchange, and my father haveing reseved such a heavy bribe, always kept the deed of gift from me and I cannot lern that it hath been recorded in any publick Record, and the deed is now in the hand of such as I think I can prove have declared they had it in ther posesion very lately. I am sory that I have ocation to reflect on the person from whome I had my being, but the truth could not be declared without it, and I would intreat your asistans by your counsell or ani other lawfull way wherby I may if it be possible recover my right.

I rest

Letter from Widow Mary Lyon.

Byram, December 21, 1701.

Generall Winthrop and Honrd Governr. I have presumed to trouble yu with the perusall of these few lines in respect of the trouble yor Kinswoman puts me and my children to, as also hearing that by her means you have receeved false reports; as if I hadd not performed the duty of a mother to her and that my children hadd not acted as if she were a sister to them; But I doe asure yr Hon'r that I have done for her as for any of my own daughters, And concerning my children showing respect to her, my eldest sonn gave her a good cow since her father's decease and the rest of my sonns hath done more for her than for any other of their sisters. I shall forbeare to write every perticular that I and my sonns have done for yr Kinswoman since my husband's decease, the which would amount to a great sum of Money but I can not forbear to informe yr Hon^r of the value of thirty pounds at least, my husband gave to Joseph Stedwell by marriage of his daughter Mary yr Hon^rs Kinswoman, I shall forbear also to inform yr Hon^r of the many gross abuses and scandalizing reports, which is spread here by her means amongst the neighbourhood against her father whom on duty she ought to have honoured if she hadd expected the blessing of God to have prospered her designes the which she is now carrying on in a very unjust manner; and I doe hope yr Hon^r will not contenance any such unjust actions. I would desire earnestly that yr Hon^r would be pleased to send me word what reports itt is that you have heard concerning this matter, that thereby I might cleare my name among my neighbors, not else from.

Your Friend Mary Lyon.

Letter of Theophilus Eaton to John Winthrop, Jr. See p. 36.

Sir: yours of Decr 8th I received this last night concerning her that was Mr. Feakes his wife and that part of the Estate at Stamford. I know not well how to add to what I formerly wrote. By order of a Court of Magistrates William Hallet was to prove what part of the Estate belonged to him, and then to receive it without further question. Mr. Feakes his Estate and children were to be divided and half to be delivered to her if she settled within any of the 4 Colonyes, where the Government would have an Eie to the children and that part of the Estate with a due respect to Mr. Feakes and the other half to be kept at Stamford with like respect to Mr. Feakes and the children.

I shall pass by her injurious writing to myself desring God may give her true repentance for greater miscarriages, but her departure from Stamford with the children (as I am informed) was altogether without allowance, and in the language which comes from thence, she stole away. It is true by order before the Court of Magistrates sate—she was to have 2 cowes delivered and some provisions but had no liberty to take away the children. I pity her and the children and upon any reasonable security at Boston or Hartford that the Estate shall be preserved for use of Mr. Feakes herself and his children, this jurisdiction being discharged I shall move the Court of Magistrates that the Estate may be wholly delivered from Stamford to such as may be orderly appointed to receive it, but no part of it is at New Haven.

I am altogether a stranger to Thomas Lyon and his wife; till now I have not heard the least intimation of her weakness or his neglect. From your information I shall now enquire and consider what the case may require. With my best respects I rest

Yours in what I may

Note 9.—THE WILL OF THOMAS² LYON OF GREENWICH,

Dated April 2, 1739 and Probated at Stamford, Conn.,

May ye 1st, 1739.

In ye name of God Amen. I Thomas Lyon of ye Towne of Greenwich, in ye County of Fairfield and Colony of Connecticut yeoman†.

†Our ancient inhabitants were wont to call themselves for the most part by the humble but honest name of "yeoman." They were farmers living frugally upon the produce of the soil. Most of their wants were supplied by domestic industry, and what they purchased was commonly procured in the way of barter. They trafficked chiefly, we are told, in wood and cattle. By the middle of the eighteenth century, however, we find quite a variety of trades carried on in Rye, such as those of wheelwright, cordwainer, carpenter, saddler, tailor, hatter, weaver, and the like. We are not to suppose that the persons so designated were employed exclusively in these several occupations. They were generally farmers who joined some kind of handicraft to their ordinary business, particularly in winter. The weavers' or wheelwrights' shops were no unusual appendage to a farm house a century or more ago.

Being now very sick and weak of Body, but of perfect mind & memory, Calling to mind the Mortality of my Body & Remembring yt it is appointed once for all men to Die Do make and ordain this my Last Will and Testament, That is to say first & Principally of all I Recommend my Soul unto ye Hands of God yt Gave it & my Body to ye Earth to be Buried in a Christian Like & Decent manner according to ye Discretion of my Execrt nothing doubting but at ye General Resurection I shall Resume the same again by ye mighty Power of God, and as Touching what Worldly Estate as it Pleased God to Bless me with in this world,—First I order all Just Debts to be paid and I Give Bequeath and Dispose of ye Rest in manner following (viz.)

ABSTRACT FROM WILL OF JOSEPH LYON (NO. 35).

Feb. 17, 1758, Joseph Lyon of the White Plain, yeoman, then in good health and sound memory but calling to mind the uncertainty of this mortal life, etc., do make this my last will and testament. Mentions wife Mary, brother-in-law Charles Theall, six sons, Joseph, Daniel, James, Reuben, Jeremiah and Thomas (Joseph, the eldest son). Mentions "my three youngest daughters, Hannah, Susannah and Anne", then mentions "my four daughters", Mary, the wife of El-nathan Haight, Hannah, Susannah and Anne (some of these sons and daughters being then minors). Makes wife Mary executrix, and in case of her death or marrying again his brother in law Charles Theall and son Daniel Lyon, "in whose care and fidelity I very much confide and depend upon" to be the executor of his will. "It is my will that whereas my said wife Mary at the Ensealing hereof is Great with Child, that when the child she now goes with shall be born, if it proves a son," etc.

August 30, 1786 Elisha Horton of Harrison's purchase (who with John and Jane Carhart, was a witness to Joseph Lyon's will) appeared before Richard Hatfield, Esq., Surrogate of Westchester County, with Joseph Lyon's will, from which the signature and witness names had been torn, and swore that he witnessed the will and that it was Joseph Lyon's last will and testament. November 24, 1798, Daniel Goldsmith, Quaker, of Consackie, Albany County, appeared before Peter Ogilvie, Judge of the court of Probates of the State of New York, and swore that the instrument attached was Joseph Lyon's will—that he came in possession of it in 1783 and that two years afterwards, Daniel Lyon the executor therein named being in Nova Scotia, the name and seal of said testator and the names of the witnesses were cut off to the knowledge of this Deponent in order that the letters of administration upon the estate might not be granted to some other person. He swore that Joseph Lyon died in the fall of 1776.

NOTE 16.—LETTER OF SAMUEL LYON (NO. 78)

To Governor George Clinton.

Horse Neck Dec'br 19th 1778.

Sir, I beg leave to acquaint your Exel'cy that the situation of affairs, are such in the County of Westchester, for the want of Guards, that I am reduced to the necessity of quitting my house, and putting myself under the protection of the Guards in this place. This is likewise the fate of every honest friend to his Country in Rye. The consequence is, that, a nomber of designing persons under the influence of avaritious & Inimical principles, make a practice, of secretly purchasing fat Catle, and in the night thro woods and bye Places, pass the Guards, here, and keep them secreeted untill a convenient opportunity presents, to send them to the Enemy. In this way I am credibly Informed, eight fat oxen and four Cows have lately been sent from the neighbourhood where I should live and a considerable nomber of fat hoggs. There is no doubt this is the case quite across to the North River. In this way the Enemy have a large and ever plenti-full supply in New York market. I am confirmed in this by the report of Capt. Olmstead of Col. Enos Regt., on Guard here; who has this week return'd from Valentine's near Fort Independence, where he had been sent a flag and detained some days, who says he heard and saw while there, two hundred head of Cattle, and a great nomber of Sheep and hoggs pass by there towards New York. This is a harvest for those Infamous Villains, the Cow Thieves, &c., and brings great distress on many of the good Citizens in this quarter of the Country, I would beg leave to hint to your Exelency, that should a party of men, as a patrole under the Command of an active honest man be Employed, I conceive would be of great Importance, and the most likely method to detect the Theives, I am told Mr. John Haynes proposes to offer himself for that purpose. Whether this, or such other method as your Exelency in your great wisdom shall judge best, I doubt not will soon be adopted. I am, with Great Respect and Esteem, your Exelen'ys most obed't Humble Ser't

Samuel Lyon.

His Exe'lcy Gov'r Clinton.

When war was declared in 1812, Franklin joined a company of Artillery, commanded by a kinsman, Captain Samuel Nelson, belonging to a regiment commanded by another kinsman, Colonel Joseph Nelson. The regiment was stationed during the war on Staten Island. Franklin afterwards learned the tanner's and shoemaker's trades, went west and took up land four miles east of Corydon, Ind., where he conducted in partnership with his brother Amos a successful business, combining agriculture with the leather industry.

NOTE 25.—MAJOR THOMAS LYON OF LYON BROOK, N. Y.

In the Lyon Memorial, Connecticut and New Jersey Families, p. 249 it is stated that three brothers, Samuel, Alexander and "Major" Lyon, "from Connecticut or Rhode Island" settled in 1791 at Lyon Brook, Chenango Co., N. Y. The information came from a descendant of this Samuel Lyon and should be authentic. Reasons are given (loc. cit.) for the belief that these three brothers were from Rhode Island, and that they were descendants of Henry Lyon of Newark. The account stated that of the three brothers, two, Samuel and Alexander, had served in the Revolutionary war "in a Connecticut regiment." The name Alexander Lyon, however, does not occur in any list of Revolutionary soldiers from Connecticut, and the vague family tradition cannot be given much weight. The definite statement, however, that the third brother, "Major" Lyon, was killed at Little York in a fight with the British in 1812, is confirmed by the following passage found in the Annals of Oxford. Thomas Lyon, one of three brothers who came to Oxford, N. Y., from Dutchess County in 1792, "became a major and led a regiment of State Troops from the County of Chenango in the War of 1812. Towards the close of 1813 General Dearborn, under whom Major Lyon served, crossed Lake Erie with seventeen hundred men, with the intention of attacking York, now Toronto, and then the chief depot of the British Posts in the West. A landing was made before York on the 27th of the month [April] under hot fire, but the Americans pushed on and the enemy were driven from the works. The Americans were still pressing toward the main works when a magazine exploded, a plot of the British. Two hundred Americans were killed and wounded, among the mortally wounded being Major Lyon, who was carried on board the Commodore's vessel and there died, the death of a hero." In fact the troops who were engaged in the attack upon York were under the command of Gen. Zebulon M. Pike, and that officer with two of his aides, one of them very possibly Major Thomas Lyon, were mortally injured in the explosion. General Pike lingered long enough to receive the British ensign torn down from the captured fort.

It is clear that Major Thomas Lyon was not Thomas⁵ No. 288 [David⁴, Jonathan³, Thomas², Thomas¹]. whose history is given elsewhere in this volume in detail. The conjecture that the three brothers were sons of Thomas Lyon of Cranston, R. I., whose brother John removed from Rhode Island about 1794 (?) to Sherburne, Chenango Co., N. Y., is a very plausible one. If one further assumes that John Lyon born at Lyons Farms about 1698 accompanied or followed his brother, Lieutenant James, to Rhode Island, we have this possible lineage: Major Thomas⁵, Thomas⁴, John³, Samuel², Henry¹, of Newark.

Returning to the Annals of Oxford, we find the statement that Thomas, David and Samuel Lyon, brothers, went from Dutchess County, N. Y.,† to Oxford, N. Y., in 1792. "They went up the river in a canoe from Great Bend, Pa., and settled at what is now known as Lyons Brook, then called Can-na-wa-go. They purchased seven square miles of land for one shilling per acre. After meeting with many vicissitudes they finally cleared the land and developed several fine farms and erected grist mills and saw mills." Evidently this is another version of the story of the brothers, Alexander, Samuel and "Major", who "came to Lyon Brook in 1791, bought land of Benjamin Hovey, Gov. Clinton's land agent for one shilling an acre, and built a grist mill, a lumber mill and a woolen mill." The brothers could not have been Thomas, David and Samuel, Nos. 288, 292 and 294, but there is reason to believe that David No. 292 did go to Chenango county to live, for it is stated that in 1811 his sister Elizabeth Jacobs, No. 287 went to join him there. A daughter of David, Susanne or Susan married a son of Samuel Lyon of Lyons Brook, and it is stated by their grand daughter, Miss Anna Holcomb, that these Lyons were not related ["were of entirely different dens"]. Miss Holcomb gives the following record.

- Children of Samuel and _____ (_____) Lyon:
- I. Daniel; m. _____.
 - II. Huldah; m. Charles Smith.
 - III. Sally; m. _____ Rathbone.

†Circumstantial as this account is, it may be after all that the three brothers did not come from Dutchess County. It would be natural to assume that they came from there, because other Lyons in Chenango County were from that locality.

LYON FAMILIES OF PENNSYLVANIA.

About 1750-1763 there came from Enniskillen, co. Ulster, Ireland, to Pennsylvania a Lyon family whose descendants are now widely spread and number some of the most prominent representatives of the Lyon family in America. The ancestry of the Irish family has not been traced, but there is every reason to believe that it sprang from the same stock as the English families. It is observable that in Ireland as in England the name appears both with and without the final "s." The immigrants were John Lyon with his family, and three sons of his younger brother, James.

There was also in Marblehead a Lynes family represented by a Samuel Lynes who married, Sept. 24, 1741, Elizabeth Commins, and in the next generation (presumably) by a Samuel who married March 1, 1778, Deborah Marston.

MISCELLANEOUS LYON ITEMS.

The following additional notes on some of the Old World Lyons were communicated by Dr. G. W. A. Lyon, as supplemental to the Chapter on the Lyons of England, pp. 7 et. seq.

In the archives of Calvados, Normandy, are preserved papers relating to the Abbey of Villers-Canivet. No. 12 is a deed wherein Raoul Buffart gives certain rights, etc., to the abbey on the occasion of his daughter's entering the community as religieuse. Pierre [Peter] de Lions is mentioned as witness to this deed. The document is without date; but the abbey has existed since 1127; chart No. 69 bears date 1150; chart No. 71, 1154; chart No. 72, 1186 etc. The abbey was near Falaise, and not far from the castle of Lions. It is quite possible, therefore, that Pierre was the father of Ingelram, the first of the name in England. Peter, then, has persisted as a family name for 700 years.

No. 84 in the papers of the Abbey of St. Jean of Falaise—in the same diocese as the above—founded by consent of Henry I. of England, is a gift to the abbey by Geoffrey Louon of the lands which Richard, a priest, son of Hugh de Muires, held of him and Asceline his wife. The date is 1224, but the seal is broken. This Geoffrey may have been Geoffrey of Norfolk.

In the archives of the Abbey of Fontaine-Guerard is a long and circumstantial account of the murder by William de Lion, Lord of Haqueville of hs wife, Marie de Ferrières. The murder was an atrocious one, and William, to escape the royal justice, surrendered himself at the prison at Rouen, alleging that the crime, having been committed in a convent, belonged to ecclesiastic jurisdiction. But on complaint of the family of Ferrières, the King ordered the prisoner sent to the castle of Guerard. He was forced to found a daily mass forever in the church of Fontaine-Guerard for the repose of the soul of his victim; to give a certain amount of land to the four sons which he had by his marriage; to remain two years outside the realm, and to make several pilgrimages. Dated June 1, 1401. He was killed 1415 at Agincourt. The sepulchral statue of Marie de Ferrières, removed from the church to the Tower of King John of England, was subsequently restored to the church, and is still existent.

In the choir of this abbey was interred Hervé de Lion, who had become Lord of Radepont by his marriage with Matilde de Poissy about 1280. Nearby is interred Hervé de Lion, their son, Lord of Noyon on the Andelle, of Radepong and of Pont St. Pierre, husband of Jeanne de Montmorenci.

In the matter of the Lyon estate at Eccleston, Lancaster, Henry and Ellen, his wife, had a messuage and lands there in the early part of the 15th century; this descended through Robert, George, Henry, to William, claimant in 1570. George had it in 1609.

The "Lyon dollar" was a Dutch (Brabant) coin, so called because it bore the figure of a lion (formerly often written lyon). In Feb., 1705, the merchants of New York complained that that city was drained of "heavy" money "so that we can expect nothing to tarry with us but the Lyon dollar, whereof none here can judge of their value." The coin was said to have been then commonly in circulation in New York, Pennsylvania and even in the Carolinas. Its value, the merchants at that time believed should be fixed at 5s. 6d. In 1720 an Act was passed to raise the value of the Lyon dollar. In 1768 they were mentioned as "rarely now seen."

In a letter from Edward Howes to John Winthrop Jr., dated Feb. 25, 1629, occurs the following: "The Arabian Philos. I writt to you of he was styled among vs Dr Lyon, the best of all the Rosicrucians that ever I mett with all, farre beyond Dr Ever."

An old indenture dated May 26, 1705, is recorded in New York city of Phillip Lyon, orphan ae. about fourteen as servant and apprentice to Hendrick von Bael of the city of New York. Another early Lyon name in New York is that of Thomas Lyon, barber, May 27, 1702. Half a century later we find an Abraham Lyon, Jew, baker, in New York mentioned in will of Mordicai Gomez dated May 3, 1750.

Rye was originally Poningoe, named from Ponus, one of the ruling sagamores of Rippowams (Stamford) 1640. The Byram river was called Armonck; Blind Brook was Mockquams; Stony Brook was Pockeotessen.

In 1729 the proprietors of undivided lands in Rye granted to the Presbyterian Society half an acre of land on the plains for a building site, signed among others by John Lyon, Jr. (No. 24) and Joseph Lyon (No. 8).

In the will of John Allison of Haverstraw, Jan. 6, 1751, mention is made of land of Banks and Lyon lying in Kakiat (Lib. xix, p. 141).

The will of Elisha Budd of White Plains (see No. 42), dated Sept. 11, 1765, speaks of father in law Joseph Lyon and makes bequests to four daughters, Miriam Maynard, Sarah Purdy, Ann Brown and Phebe Theal, also son Jonathan and son in law Isaiah Maynard (executor) Lib. XXV. p. 8. The record of No. 156 on page 63 should therefore read: m. before 1765 Isaiah [not Jonah] Maynard; also to the record of No. 159 should be added: m. before 1765 —— Theall.

In "Westchester Wills" it is stated that Coles Golding of Bedford, in will dated Jan. 6, 1760, makes bequest to Israel Lyons (No. 275), son of Israel, and appoints as executors wife Phebe and friends Jonathan Lyons Sr. and Israel Lyons. The statement differs in several particulars from that found on page 75. Reference is to Lib. XXII, p. 11.

The will of Thomas Marsh (Lib. XXVII, p. 351) of Harrison's Purchase was dated April 14, 1770, probated Oct. 3, 1770.

As stated on footnote on page 69, Thomas Marsh of Harrison's Purchase bequeathed land to his daughter Anne, wife of Thomas Lyon (No. 72), to go to her son Samuel Lyon at her death. He made bequests also to his grand-daughters Sarah Lyon (land) and Phebe Lyon (£100). The record on page 69 gives the birth of Sarah daughter of Thomas Lyon as July 15, 1771, whereas the will of Thomas Marsh was dated April 14, 1770. The inference is that Thomas Lyon had a daughter Sarah who may or may not have been older than Phebe, but who died after April 14, 1770 and before July 15, 1771.

The will of Susannah Bishop of Phillips Manor (or Phillipsburgh) dated June 12, 1763 (Lib. XXIV, p. 190) makes bequests to daughter Sarah Lyons and granddaughter Jemima Lyons, also to sons John and Thomas and to daughters Rebecca Drake, Susannah Ryder, Jemima Styvers and Ann Wildby. [In these old wills the name Lyon is not unfrequently written Lyons, if the printed copies are to be trusted.]

An unidentified Samuel Lyon lived in New York City in the middle of the eighteenth century. He was probably not of the family of Thomas Lyon of Rye. His will indicates the nature of his business, and seems to show that he had no immediate relatives or else that he was disowned by his family. The will is as follows (Lib. xxii p. 328, Surrogate's office, New York City): In the name of God Amen. I Samuel Lyon of the City of New York, Marriner, being of Sound mind and memory and considering the uncertainty of this Frail and Transitory Life, do therefore make and ordain this my last Will and Testament; that is to say, First, after all my just debts be paid and discharged, I give and bequeath unto my trusty Friend Alexander Wylly and Mary his wife, of the said City of New York, Tavern Keepers, all my real and Personal Estate, and more particularly all my share or shares of Prize Money due or coming to me from all prizes taken by the Privateer, Sloop Goldfinch, Capt. Dobbs Commander, during her last Cruize, and likewise all share or shares of Prize Money that shall be or may become due to me from The Privateer, Brigg George, Peter Healy Commander, now bound on a Cruize against his Majesty's enemies. Likewise I make and ordain the said Alexander Wylly and Mary his wife to be Executors of this my last Will and Testament, hereby utterly disallowing any former wills by me made. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and Seal the thirtyyeth day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and fifty eight, and in the thirty second year of his Majesty's reign. Witnesses: George Campbell, Stephen Fitz Patrick, Moses Cherry.

MERRILL PALMER LYON was a descendant of some Canterbury Lyon. Note that Harriet¹ Lyon [Chester², Ephraim³, Ebenezer⁴] of Canterbury married Henry P. Palmer, as a suggestion for the origin of the given name Palmer. The family has a tradition of some remote connection with Gen. Nathaniel Lyon. Merrill Palmer Lyon married Mary Antress Lewis. They had a son Joseph Palmer Lyon, born at Hanover, Conn., Nov. 29, 1869; whether or not there were other children has not been ascertained. Joseph Palmer Lyon is a civil engineer, grad. Mass. Institute of Technology, where he was afterwards Instructor and Assistant Professor. Specialty, bridge construction. Has been Bridge Inspector for New York Central R. R., and Estimator for American Car and Foundry Co., Passaic, N. J. Has resided in Rochester, N. Y., New York City, Detroit, Mich., at last account (1905) in Hanover, Conn. He married in Hyde Park, Mass. Oct. 31, 1896 Frances Clara La Rhetta, born 1873, daughter of Samuel (dec. July 15, 1898) and Clara Ann (Lovell) La Rhetta.

Daughter of Joseph P. and Frances C. (La Rhetta) Lyon:
I. Louise Frances; b. Rochester, N. Y., July 2, 1899.

MRS. TRUMAN HAWLEY LYON of Grand Rapids, Mich. (see Lyon Pioneers of Michigan, in Vol. II. of the Memorial) died suddenly Dec. 23, 1907. The fatal attack of heart disease came just as her son-in-law, Prof. Greacon of the High School in Grand Rapids was reading aloud a letter telling of the birth in Cleveland (to Mrs. Carl Adams) of her first great-grandchild. Mrs. Lyon was one of the oldest residents of the city and prominent in club and society circles.

ERNEST NEAL LYON (see Vol. II. p. 379), widely known as a contributor of verse to various magazines, died at Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 26, 1907. An obituary notice appeared in the Newark Evening News of Nov. 30, giving a sketch of his life and commenting favorably on his literary achievements. Especial mention is made of his lines on President McKinley's last words and those on Roosevelt's Charge at San Juan. He is survived by his wife, Amelia Stanner Lyon.

SUPPLEMENT TO VOLUME I.

Addenda and Corrigenda.

1. FAMILY OF WILLIAM LYON OF ROXBURY.

No. 35, p. 32.—Probably died intestate about 1718. Jan. 30, 1720-1 “Elizabeth Lyon, daughter of Edward Airs of Portsmouth, widow of Henry Lyon, who died two or three years ago,” petitions for a settlement of the estate. There seems to be no other Henry Lyon to whom this could refer.

No. 6, p. 33.—Joseph may have had a daughter Abigail, born about 1699. No other explanation suggests itself for the record: “Abigail Lyon of Woodstock married, July 18, 1718, William Chapman of Mansfield.”

No. 12, p. 36.—It is likely that this was the “Lyon of Roxbury” of whom John Winthrop, Aug. 7, 1711, writes that he hired four horses. “Lyon himself,” he adds, “comes with us with an axe, if there should be bows in the way.” Other Lyons living in Roxbury at that time were Thomas (No. 3), ae. 63; William² (No. 5), ae. 59; Eliphalet (No. 29), ae. 24, and possibly Joseph² (No. 6), ae. 57, although he was probably living then in Woodstock.

No. 105, p. 41.—Ebenezer Goodell inherited from his father the old home farm in Canterbury (set off from Pomfret 1749).

Children of Ebenezer and Experience (Lyon) Goodell, born in Pomfret (Canterbury):

- I. Ebenezer; b. Sept. 12, 1729; was in the Revolutionary war; m. Phebe Holt.

- VII. Experience; b. April 23, 1747; m. Thomas Grow.
- VIII. Cornelins; b. July 7, 1749; m. Nellie Dana.

N. B.—By Volume I. is meant Lyon Memorial Massachusetts Families. Throughout this Supplement, page and serial numbers are those of this volume.

No. 116, p. 42.—The Eleazer Lyon mentioned in footnote, p. 42, was probably a son of Eleazer (No. 116.), since one of his daughters was named Bethia Allen, his wife's maiden name. Sutton Vital Records contain the following items: baptized Oct. 6, 1776, Betty Lyon, Joanna Lyon, Lucretia Lyon, Martha Lyon; baptized Aug. 22, 1779, Anna Lyon, Bethia Allen Lyon. Anna is said to have been daughter of Eleazer and Mary Lyon; the others no doubt were of the same family.

No. 127, p. 43.—Philip Lyon settled south of Wigwam Hill after 1741. He was one of 22 men from Wilbraham 1755-60; was one of 8 men from that place in the army before Boston, after the Lexington alarm, he having rank of sergeant. Dr. Philip Lyon (perhaps son of the foregoing) died in Ludlow July 26, 1802, leaving no family; his "amiable consort" died the previous year at Randolph, Vt. (Hist. Conn. Valley).

No. 64, p. 49.—It was possibly a daughter of Ebenezer (born about 1733-4, but not recorded) that was the Elizabeth Lyon of Woodstock who married, Jan. 26, 1753, John Ransom.

No. 190, p. 49.—Possibly the "Abel Lyon" who married, June 4, 1767, Elizabeth Hosmer of Woodstock; if so, he married later in life than was usual in those days, or else was twice married.

No. 107, p. 58.—Jonathan Lyon sold to Lieut. John Fisk 35 acres of land in Pomfret in 1754 for £1700 and bought 54½ acres in Pomfret and Ashford at the same time for £1660, "old tennor."

No. 304, p. 60.—This could not have been the Zerviah Lyon of Pomfret, who married April 25, 1764 Joseph Ashley (born Hampton, Conn., June 1, 1728; died Pomfret, Sept. 1787). She was a second wife, therefore not likely to have been very young when married. She was most probably a descendant (granddaughter) of Abiel Lyon of Pomfret (No. 34). She may possibly have been the missing member of the large family of Jonathan Lyon (No. 107). She died May 5, 1781.

Children of Joseph and Zerviah (Lyon) Ashley:

- I. Thomas; b. Oct. 25, 1765.
- II. Chloe; b. Oct. 2, 1768; d. "past middle life" in Hampton, Conn., unm.

He married second at Rehoboth, April 21, 1792, Lydia, daughter of Capt. Obadiah Read. She died Sept. 3, 1796 (Chronicle); he died at Haverhill Sept. 24, 1796.

No. 166, p. 65.—Sept. 12, 1774, Nathaniel Child, Elisha Child, Jediah Morse, Charles C. Chandler, and Samuel McClellan, Committee on Correspondence for the town of Woodstock send by the hand of Capt. Lyon a letter accompanying a donation of sixty-five sheep for the revolutionary forces in Boston.

Mass. Lemuel kept a tavern in Goshen, and was one of the selectmen there in 1781.

Several generations later a Marcus Lyon of Goshen, Mass., no doubt a descendant of Caleb Lyon (No. 59), married Cordelia Shaw and settled in Wauseon, O. He had a son, Arthur William, born June 11, 1857, grad. Oberlin 1880, "Merchant Miller"; res. (1906) Ligonier, Ind.; married at Rockland, Me., Ellen M. Spear, daughter of E. R. These items from the Vital Records of Phillipston, which contain also the following, relating it may be assumed, to children of Luther: Mary Ann Lyon married, Nov. 5, 1829, Abraham Oaks of Athol; Sophia Lyon married, May 12, 1831, Gilman D. No. 402, p. 70.—The statement that Molly (or Polly) Lyon married first Marcy Whitney is an error. She married, Feb. 22, 1800, Freeman Pratt, who was born in Southbridge Dec. 19, 1775, and died July 3, 1855. They had a daughter, Mary May Pratt, born in Southbridge, Oct. 3, 1809 (and probably other children); she married Aug. 25, 1834, Schuyler Carroll Phillips, who was born in Woodstock, Conn., April 26, 1809, and died in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1888; she died Jan. 17, 1856; both were buried at West Woodstock. He married a second time, but no children by this marriage are living. No. 685, p. 122.—The following item from the Congregationalist and Christian World (April —, 1907) will be of interest to every Lyon:

"The most notable event in recent Rhode Island history occurred April 10, when the whole State Conference, association, and even neighbors across the line, gathered in the beautiful church at Central Falls to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. James H. Lyon. There have been long pastorates in this seaboard state, notable, historical even, but at present none beside this stretches up quite to its twentieth year. The celebration came almost entirely as a surprise to Mr. Lyon, who refers to it now as a "conspiracy," and the spontaneity of the church was only equaled by the hearty love and delight of every minister and layman throughout the conference.

"On the preceding Sabbath Mr. Lyon—who has "never been Doctored"—summed up the years in a sermon saturated by the radiant wit, keen intelligence, and exquisite English of which he is master. But Wednesday was the day. Men arose in that packed audience one after the other to praise, to reverence, to congratulate until even the enormous bouquet of roses which towered from the platform proved unable to hide his blushes. Speeches, letters, poetry simply poured over the pulpit top. One parson declared that of the three types, young, old and eternal men, Mr. Lyon is the last, ending his address with the loyal salutation, "O King, live forever!" Another prayed God to keep him long from Heaven that he might go on making Heaven here below.

"But when he rose at last, tall, vibrant, with the fire of youth undimmed within his eyes, the audience murmured at his close, "Speakers have spoken excellently, but thou excellest them all." Seldom has a more brilliant and clever address delighted a critical crowd."

Coat of Arms of William Bateman. Or, on a chevron between three escalops gules, an ostrich feather argent. Crest: a pheasant ppr. Motto: "Nec pretio nec prece."

Explanation of Coat of Arms.

The meaning of some of the above heraldic words are as follows: Argent: silver or white. Azure: blue. Or: gold. A demi-lady holding in her right hand a Royal Thistle etc., is an allusion to the alliance with the daughter of the King. Flory and Counterflory gules means flowered and counter-flowered red.

Page 33, line 13.—The date of 1648 is incorrect after all, according to the modern method of reckoning time. King Charles was beheaded January 30, 1649, a date memorable in history. In those days, however, the legal year began March 25 instead of January 1, so that the date was written January 30, 1648, or oftener January 30, 1648-9.

N. B.— By Volume II. is meant Lyon Memorial, Connecticut and New Jersey Families. Throughout this Supplement, page and serial numbers are those of this volume.

[†]Mr. Cox has rendered invaluable service to the descendants of Henry Lyon by his thorough and painstaking critical review of the history of this family as presented in Vol. II. of the Lyon Memorial. A few additional notes and comments have been supplied also by the Editor in chief of the Memorial, these indicated by the initials [A. B. L.].

Henry Lyon was admitted to the Milford church Feb. 24, 1649 (if we can accept this date) less than a month after the tragedy at Whitehall. Miss Sidney Lyon states that the three brothers came to America in 1648. At least one of them, Thomas, came certainly earlier than this. In August, 1647, Thomas was settled in Stamford and married to the granddaughter of Governor John Winthrop. This completely refutes the hypothesis that he was present at the execution of King Charles [A. B. L.].

Page 44, line 16.—The statement made here that Henry Lyon was the youngest of the three brothers from Glen Lyon seems to be based on the fact that he was the last of the three to assume matrimonial responsibilities. Thomas must have been married in 1746 or 1747; Richard is supposed to have been married as early as 1650, although this is by no means certain; Henry married in 1652. It is stated on page 252 that according to family tradition, Richard was the youngest of the three brothers, and this may have been true. He had only three children who were of age when his will was made, April 12, 1678. This would indicate that his marriage, assuming that he had but one wife, took place about 1652 [1651-3]. The comment of Mr. J. C. Cox is: "it is my opinion from all known data and information of these three Lyons, that they should come in the following order as to birth, Thomas, Richard and Henry, the latter being the youngest and born probably about 1625. The date of Henry's birth, given by some authorities at 1618, looks now to be erroneous." [A. B. L.]

Page 62, line 11.—The date of Henry Lyon's will, given here and elsewhere as 1702, was actually Feb. 9, 1703, according to our modern method of reckoning time. Up to the year 1752 in England and her colonies the legal year began March 25, although in the popular reckoning, it began as now on January first. This explains the date of the will in question, which is given as "this ninth day of February, 1702 alias 3," which is further fixed beyond question by the added statement "and in ye first year of ye Reign of our Sovereign Lady Anne &c Queen &c," since Anne became Queen of England April 23, 1702. Similar double dates occur frequently in the early history of the American colonies, and they should always be quoted in full; the usual form would be Feb. 9, 1702-3. [A. B. L.]

Page 62, line 24.—Read: "John had died in 1694 and Thomas had shortly followed his younger brother; Nathaniel passed on in 1701." Note that the will of John was probated Nov. 2, 1694, while inventory of the estate of Thomas was made Nov. 21, 1694. Nathaniel was dead and his widow again married when Henry¹ made his will, for he speaks of his daughter "Mary Lyon, alias Potter, relict of my son Nathaniel Lyon." The death of Nathaniel could not therefore have taken place after 1702, and since his will is dated Dec. 20, 1700, it is practically certain that he died early in 1701.

Page 80.—At the beginning of the paragraph, the probable date of the birth of Henry Lyon should be given. On page 44 it is stated that he was born perhaps about 1625, and that seems a reasonable conjecture. Although nothing is known of his parentage one may surmise that their given names were Thomas and Mary.

Page 80, line 8.—The date of Henry's marriage is given on p. 46 as May, 1652, here simply as 1652. The name of his bride is given here as well as on p. 46 and elsewhere as Elizabeth Bateman (daughter of William). Savage and other authorities say that she was "Mary Bateman, the only daughter of William Bateman." Elizabeth may be correct, if it can be shown by her father's will that Henry Lyon's wife was so named, or if the deed of May 1st, 1675 of Henry Lyon and wife of Elizabethtown to Honorable Philip Carteret calls her Elizabeth. The will of William Bateman, quoted on p. 47 (line 13) mentions a grandchild, "Joseph Middlebrooke," showing decisively that he had another daughter besides the one who married Henry Lyon, and that this daughter married a Middlebrooke. Elizabeth, if that was her name, was probably born about 1630-2.

Page 80, line 10.—Henry Lyon is here said to have been dismissed from Fairfield to Milford Church May 28, 1654. The fact was, as stated p. 46, that he was dismissed on that date from Milford to Fairfield Church.

Page 80, line 18.—For February 4, 1861 read February 4, 1681, or possibly 1680. The date of Henry's second marriage, given in line 23 as "about 1689-90" should be four or five years earlier. His second wife, Mary, was undoubtedly daughter of one of the early settlers in Newark, probably Matthew Campfield, Samuel Plum or Stephen Freeman. At the close of the paragraph, it is stated that Henry returned to Newark in 1696. On p. 73 in Prof. Winan's sketch of Lyons Farms, it is implied that he was still in Elizabeth in 1700.

Page 80, No. 2.—Thomas must have been born in 1653, since his parents were not married until May 1652.

Page 80, No. 3.—Mary was probably born 1656. If Samuel was "a lad of fourteen" at the time of the land distribution in 1667 (see p. 54), he must have been older than Mary.

Page 80, No. 4.—Samuel was born probably in the latter part of the year 1654.

Page 81, No. 10.—Mary was born probably about 1686-7.

Page 81, No. 11.—Dorcas was born probably about 1688-9.

Page 81, No. 2.—Thomas Lyon married Elizabeth ——, who was undoubtedly Elizabeth Ward, born 1660, sister of John Ward who married Mary Lyon, No. 3. They were children of Sergeant John Ward, Sr. The children of Thomas and Elizabeth should probably be named in the following order:

- I. Penelope; m. Thomas Thompson.
- II. Elizabeth; unm.
- III. Annas; m. —— Mills.
- IV. Isaac; b. 1691.
- V. Thomas; b. 1692.
- VI. Mattaniah; b. 1694 (year of his father's death).

Page 82, line 1.—For 1669 read 1696.

Page 82, line 21.—For Zopher read Thomas; Zopher was the brother, not the father, of Sarah Beach.

Page 82, line 31.—For Aug. 20, 1703 read Jan. 20, 1707 as date of Samuel's will. The statement represented as based on this will that the children by first marriage were Samuel, Henry, Joseph, Mary and Sarah, those by second marriage, John, James and Hannah is certainly not in accordance with fact. The record should read:

Children of Samuel and Sarah (Beach) Lyon:

I. Samuel; b. 1676. He m. likely a dau. of Rev. Abraham Pierson Jr..

N. B. Page and serial numbers are those of Vol. II.

and Abigail Clark, he the son of Rev. Abraham and Abigail (Wheelwright) Pierson.

II. John; b. about 1678, probably, since he married Elizabeth Riggs, born 1679. She would not marry a man fifteen or twenty years younger than herself.

III. Joseph; b. about 1680; m. Mary Pierson.

IV. Henry; b. 1682; m. Mary Roberts.

V. Sarah.

Children of Samuel and Hannah (Pierson) Lyon:

VI. Mary.

VII. Hannah.

VIII. James; b. Oct. 5, 1700; d. Nov. 16, 1775, at Newport, R. I.

Page 83, line 8.—For 1726 read February 1726-7; the date must have been between the 15th and the 27th of Feb. 1727. Mary Harrison (line 9) was daughter of Richard Harrison, Sr. of Branford, Conn. (from W. Kirby, Eng.) Sarah Brown (line 10) was born about 1685, daughter of Joseph and Hannah (Freeman) Brown. Hannah Freeman, born 1655, daughter of Stephen and Hannah (Astwood) Freeman. Hannah Astwood was daughter of Capt. John Astwood and his first wife. Joseph Brown was son of John and Mary (Burwell) Brown, John being one of the Newark pioneers from Milford. The last three lines of the paragraph refer to an unidentified Joseph Lyon, certainly not No. 5.

Children of Joseph and Mary (Pierson) Lyon:

I. Abigail; b. about 1685-6; m. 1704-5, Joseph³ Crane, Esq. [Jasper², Jasper¹].

*II. Mary; m. Nathan Foster.

III. Hannah; b. about 1704; m. Samuel⁴ Sayre, b. about 1700, d. 1760 [Samuel³, Daniel², Thomas¹.]; they had a son Samuel, and other children, names not known to the writer.

IV. Elizabeth; b. about 1706; m. Daniel Sayre, second cousin of Samuel.

Page 83, No. 6.—Nathaniel Lyon married Mary, who was probably Mary Camp, born 1664, or possibly Mary Harrison. As a widow she married in 1702 Samuel Potter. Mary Harrison was daughter of Richard Harrison, Jr., of the colony from Branford.

Page 83, No. 7.—John Lyon died Oct. 23-31, 1694. His wife was Hannah ——, probably Hannah Baldwin, daughter of John and Hannah (Bruen) Baldwin. Nothing is known of his descendants or whether indeed he had grandchildren.

Page 88, No. 8.—The record should read:

Children of Benjamin and Bethia (Condit) Lyon:

I. Anne; [not Abigail]; b. 1689; m. —— Canfield.

II. Joanna; b. about 1691; m. Joseph Prudden.

III. Benjamin; b. 1693 [not 1690 as stated].

Note.—A fourth daughter Mary, m. Nathan Foster, is erroneously added in the list of Errata, p. 390. The Mary who m. Nathan Foster was No. 29.

Page 88, No. 9.—Capt. Ebenezer Lyon died March 31 [not 13], 1739. On p. 89, line 10, also line 13, for Darkis read Dorkis or Dorcas; in line 14, for Riderous read Ridemus.

Page 89, No. 50.—Bethia m. 1st (as stated) John Winans; m. 2nd Joseph⁴ Foster [Mary³ (Lyon), Joseph², Henry¹]; m. 3rd. Ichabod Grommon (Grumman).

Page 89, line 7 from bottom.—The date of death of John Winans, 1674, is inconsistent with that of the birth of a second John given in the next line as 1673. Probably the latter date should be also 1674; in any case the dates are given only approximately. In line 2 from bottom of page, for his brother's father, read Susannah's mother's father.

Page 90, No. 13.—Following the list of the children of Thomas Lyon there should be a statement that there were other children.

Page 90, No. 20.—Samuel Lyon married probably a Pierson. They probably had other children, among them a son David. Prudence, No. 2160, Mary, No. 2161 and Rebecca, No. 2162, mentioned among unidentified Lyon names, page 238, may have been of this family, or these may have been children of Henry or Joseph, brothers of this Samuel.

Page 90, No. 21.—Mary Roberts was probably a daughter of David Roberts. The children (sons) of Henry and Mary Roberts Lyon, in order of birth were:

I. David; b. 1710; d. 1755; m. Phebe ——; no children; will 1742. This is almost certainly the Capt. David Lyon who was buried at Whippany, Morris Co., N. J. There is a stone there indicating that he was born 1710 and died 1755. Nevertheless, possibly the David buried at Whippanny was son of Samuel, No. 20.

- II. Zopher; b. about 1712; m. Mary ——, 1732.
- III. Henry; b. about 1714; d. before 1771; m. Mary Wood.
- IV. Josiah; b. about 1716; m. about 1740 Mary ——.
- V. Jonathan; b. 1719; d. 1784; m. Mary Baldwin.
- VI. Nathaniel; b. about 1721; d. 1761; m. Rebecca Pierson.

Page 91, No. 22.—Joseph Lyon was born about 1680, not 1676, Mary Pierson, his wife, was daughter of Rev. Abraham and Abigail (Clark) Pierson. Abraham Pierson, b. about 1641, d. 1708, was son of Rev. Abraham Pierson 1608-1678 and Abigail Wheelwright, dau. of Rev. John Wheelwright. Abigail Clark was dau. of Deacon George Clark of Milford, Conn.

Page 91, No. 69.—For b. 1700 read b. about 1702-3:

Page 91, No. 70.—Abraham, according to a reliable genealogist, was b. 1710 and d. 1732. Joseph and Mary (Pierson) Lyon certainly had several other sons and daughters. Besides Joseph and Abraham possibly they had also the following children: Samuel, John, James, Abigail, Sarah, Susannah and Mary. It is quite probable that Mary, No. 2161, p. 238, was their daughter.

Page 91, No. 25.—John Lyon b. about 1678, m. Elizabeth Riggs b. about 1679.

Page 91, No. 71.—Joseph Lyon, No. 71 (see p. 101) could not have been son of John, No. 25. Probably he was son of Joseph No. 194, p. 101.

Page 92, No. 75.—The date of Samuel's baptism should read probably July 6, 1738; either this or the date of death must be wrong [A. B. L.].

Page 93, No. 28.—Joseph Crane died in 1726 after Aug. 2nd, or in 1727 before Feb. 13th. Jasper Crane was born 1650 not 1657 and died at Newark March 16, 1712 not March 6, 1712. Capt. Samuel Swaine was born 1651 not 1659. Joseph Crane's will was proved Feb. 13, 1727 instead of May 24, 1727, as stated.

Children of Joseph and Abigail (Lyon) Crane†:

- I. Benjamin; b. Nov. 27, 1705-6; d. July 13-14, 1777; m. Sarah ——.

†The dates of this family as given in the Lyon Genealogy have been copied mainly from Crane's Genealogy, which has made a great many mistakes.

N. B. Page and serial numbers are those of Vol. II.

He was the eldest child, but was under age Aug. 2, 1726. No descendants have been traced.

II. Isaac; b. Oct. 8, 1709; m. not Kezia Baldwin but Samuel⁴ Crane [John³, Azariah², Jasper¹].

III. Ezekiel; b. May 8, 1711; d. March or April, 1794; m. probably 1st, Phebe _____; m. 2nd, Abigail Baldwin.

IV. Israel; b. Jan. 2, 1713; d. Aug. 1, 1785; m. according to competent authority Sarah _____. He may have married also as stated on p. 103, Abigail _____.

V. Abigail; b. about July 1714§; d. Oct. 20, 1768; m. Samuel Lyon (No. 62).

VI. Joseph; b. Jan. 2 (or 7), 1716; d. _____; m. Elizabeth Johnson.

VII. Josiah; b. Dec. 28, 1718; d. Dec. 15, 1785; m. 1st, Jerusha Cook; m. 2nd, Phebe _____.

VIII. Joanna; b. Sept. 8, 1720 (not 1719 as stated); m. 1st, Samuel Congar; m. 2nd, Joseph Camp, Esq.

Page 93, No. 87.—Joseph Crane, born 1716, married Elizabeth Johnson, born about 1722-5; she made her will 1785 and d. soon after; she m. 2nd. before 1785, Paul⁴ Day, b. 1724, d. 1802 [Joseph³, Paul², George¹]. Elizabeth was dau. of Capt. John⁴ Johnson 1700-1752 [Eliphalet³ Esq. and Deborah, Thomas², Robert¹] and Elizabeth⁴ Ogden, b. about 1705 [Capt. David³ 1678-1734, David² and Elizabeth (Swain) Ward, John¹]. Elizabeth³ (Swain) Ward [Capt. Samuel², William¹], was widow of Josiah² Ward [George¹].

The children of Joseph and Elizabeth (Johnson) Crane were:

I. John.

II. Benjamin.

III. David; d. before 1785; m. Hannah Wade, who was born at Connecticut Farms. They had: Phebe, b. 1778; Elizabeth, b. 1780; and five other children.

IV. Joseph.

V. Isaac.

VI. Abigail.

VII. Phebe.

VIII. Elizabeth.

Page 93, No. 89a.—Joseph Foster was born about 1710-15. There were other children, for Joseph Lyon speaks in his will of the "children" of his daughter Mary (Lyon) Foster.

Page 93. No. 30.—Elizabeth Lyon, b. about 1706, married Daniel⁴ Sayre [Daniel³, Joseph², Thomas¹].

§Abigail Crane could not have been born in 1713 as stated on p. 99, unless she and Israel were twins. The Crane Genealogy says she was born 1727, but she is named in the will of her father dated Aug. 2, 1726. The 1727 may have been a misreading of 1721, and this may after all be the correct date, Abigail being the youngest child instead of Joanna. One of the two was born probably 1714, the other 1721.

Children of Daniel and Elizabeth (Lyon) Sayre:

I. Daniel.

II. Mary; m. 1st Samuel Van _____; m. 2nd _____ Long.

III. John; m. _____.

IV. Ephraim; b. March 8, 1746; m. Hannah Meeker.

Page 93, No. 32.—Obediah³ Cook was son of John² and Elizabeth [Ellis¹ and Martha Cooper]. There seems to be no evidence that Capt. Joseph Lyon made a will, neither has there been found any account of the settlement of his estate. Abigail, No. 92, was born July 14, 1754. There were certainly other children, possibly among them Obediah, Sarah and Mary.

Page 94, No. 34.—Nathaniel Lyon, father of Mary died 1701, not 1719.

Page 94, No. 40.—Benjamin Lyon was born 1693, not 1691. His first wife was undoubtedly Mary Day, sister of his second wife. In line 1, p. 95 omit (Condit), for which (Day) should probably be substituted. Hannah, No. 95, was b. about 1721; Sarah, No. 97, b. about 1725-6; Martha, No. 98, b. 1733; Daniel, No. 102, b. 1735-6. The name of Martha should therefore follow that of Moses, and Daniel should precede Matthias.

Page 95, No. 41.—The paragraph relating to the children of Joseph Prudden's negro servant is out of place in a Lyon Genealogy.

Page 96, No. 44.—Ephraim³ Clark was son of Ephraim² [Richard¹]. For Darkis, No. 119, read Dorkis; for Riderous, No. 121, read Ridemus.

Page 96, No. 50.—Bethia Lyon's mother was Elizabeth Winans, sister of Jacob, her husband's father (see footnote, p. 89). Her second husband, Joseph Foster, No. 89a., was son of her cousin Mary Lyon, No. 29. The Joseph Lyon named as executor of Joseph Foster's will was Capt. Joseph Lyon, No. 32. The older form of spelling the name Grumman was Grommon, originally Grumin. On page 97, line 5 for Ichbod, read Ichabod; line 9 for Icabod, read Ichabod. Ichabod Grumman was son of Joseph³ Grumman [_____²; John¹].

Page 97, No. 129c. Jacob Foster had a daughter Mary who married Isaiah⁵ Stites [Benjamin⁴, William³, Richard², John¹].

Children of Isaiah and Mary (Foster) Stites:

- I. Jacob Foster; m. Sarah Frazee.
- II. Henry; m. Mary Clark.
- III. Benjamin; m. Eliza Anne Drake.

JACOB FOSTER⁷ STITES [Mary⁶ (Foster), Jacob⁵, Joseph⁴, Mary³ (Lyon), Joseph², Henry¹] also [Mary⁵ (Foster) Jacob⁴, Bethia³ (Lyon), Ebenezer², Henry¹], married Sarah Frazee, daughter of Henry.

Children of Jacob F. and Sarah (Frazee) Stites:

- I. Isaiah; m. 1st ——— Drake; m. 2nd Sarah ———; no ch..
- II. Mary; d. at the age of 15 years.
- III. Charlotte; m. Philemon Dunn and had a son Albert.
- IV. Henry.

HENRY⁷ STITES [Mary⁶ (Foster), Jacob⁵, Joseph⁴, Mary³ (Lyon), Joseph², Henry¹], also [Mary⁵ (Foster) Jacob⁴, Bethia³ (Lyon); Ebenezer², Henry¹], married Mary Clark, daughter of Edward Clark of Westfield.

Children of Henry and Mary (Clark) Stites:

- I. Eliza; m. Talmage Ross, s. of John.
- II. John; m. ———; res. New York City.
- III. Annie; m. Gershom Littell, s. of Gershom.
- IV. Aaron; m. ———; res. New York City.

BENJAMIN⁷ STITES [Mary⁶ (Foster), Jacob⁵, Joseph⁴, Mary³ (Lyon), Joseph², Henry¹], also [Mary⁵ (Foster), Jacob⁴, Bethia³ (Lyon), Ebenezer², Henry¹], married Eliza Anne Drake, daughter of Nathaniel.

Children of Benjamin and Eliza Anne (Drake) Stites:

- I. Hulda; m. James Cleaver, s. of William H.
- II. Julia.
- III. Mary.
- IV. Caroline.
- V. Benjamin.

Page 97, No. 50.—The children of Ichabod Grommon and Bethia (Lyon, Winans) Foster were:

- I. Bethia; b. 1750-3; m. Benjamin Coe, s. of Benjamin, 1712-1788.
- II. Daughter; b. about 1753; d. young; buried 1769.

Page 98, No. 57.—The will of Thomas Lyon was dated Sept. 4, 1784; proved Sept. 19, 1785. He was twice married, only the last four of his children being by his second wife Temperance, as follows:

V. Moses; b. 1762.

VI. Elijah; b. 1763.

VII. John; b. 1767; perhaps John Lyon of Rockaway; see list of identified Lyons.

VIII. Levi; b. about 1765.

Page 98, No. 151.—Read: Sarah; m. Nov. 15, 1753, Joseph Hathaway at Morristown.

Page 98, No. 60.—It seems probable that Eunice Stephens, who was almost certainly a second wife, was not the mother of all of Daniel's children; possibly not of any of them†. Congar in his Genealogical Notes gives in addition to the list on p. 99 the names David and Moses. He states also that Eunice had a son John Stephens, by her first husband. The date of Daniel Lyon's birth given in the text is certainly too early; it was probably about 1730-32.

Children of Daniel Lyon:

159. I. Creecy.

160. II. Sarah; b. about 1756; m. 1774 Evetts³ Townley [Effingham², Col. Richard¹]; for descendants see No. 2166, p. 239.

161. III. Phebe.

162. IV. Joanna; b. about 1760-5; m. Enoch Ball, b. about 1760.

163. V. Anna.

†Among marriages in Hanover occurs the following: Daniel Lyon married Jan. 16, 1753, Elizabeth Force. This could hardly have been any other Daniel. If Elizabeth was dau. of Abraham Force, Abraham Lyon, No. 164, was probably her son, and she was the mother of at least six of Daniel's children.

167. IX. Daniel; probably the Daniel Lyon of Hanover 1800-19 (opinion J. C. C.).

168. X. Aaron; m. Lettee _____; she b. 1771, survived her husband many years and d. July 26, 1846; bur. Elizabethtown, First Presbyterian churchyard.

168a. XI. David; buried near his bro. Aaron; David Lyon, s. of Daniel of Springfield, m. July 10, 1798, Elizabeth Gillom (N. J. Archives).

168b. XII. Moses.

Page 99, No. 61.—Abel Lyon married probably Sarah Baldwin.

Page 99, No. 62.—Abigail Crane was born, not 1713 but either in 1714 or 1721; the latter date agrees best with the date of her marriage. Abigail and Samuel were second cousins. The son David, No. 174, was Capt. David Lyon of Elizabethtown; see page 247. Samuel Lyon and Abigail Crane had also a daughter Phebe, No. 2164, p. 238.

Page 99, No. 64.—Nathaniel Lyon was born about 1721; died Jan. or Feb. 1761.

Page 100, No. 65.—Josiah Lyon was born probably about 1716. His children should be arranged probably in about the following order:

I. Phebe.

II. Mary.

III. Lydia; b. 1745 (called Elizabeth by Congar).

IV. David; eldest son; b. 1747.

V. Abraham; b. 1749.

VI. Josiah.

VII. Ann.

Page 101, No. 68.—Henry Lyon married Mary, not Hannah Wood. Capt. Christopher Wood died Feb. 8, 1759; his will was made Nov. 20, 1758. His widow, Phebe (Johnes) Wood died 1785; her will made April 14, 1772, mentions Mary, wife of Henry Lyon. The statement that only the first three children were born before 1759 is based merely on the fact that these were named in their grandfather Wood's will;

it is probable that all were born before 1759. Henry married possibly a second wife Hannah ——. It is probable that his son James, No. 188, was Col. James, No. 2163a, (p. 238), and that Stephen; No. 192, was the unidentified Stephen, No. 2165, whose birth is given on p. 238 as 1751, on p. 239 as 1755. The record however on page 239 certainly does not all relate to this Stephen, whose wife, however, was probably Mary.

Page 101, No. 69.—David³ Littell was son of John² and Mary [George¹ and Alice Poore].

Page 101, No. 194.—This Joseph was almost certainly the father of Capt. Joseph Lyon, No. 71.

Page 101, No. 197.—This Samuel Lyon was possibly the father of the unidentified Samuel, No. 2170a, born 1780 (p. 240).

Page 101, No. 70.—The dates of birth and death of Abraham Lyon are identical with those of Mary, wife of Josiah Lyon, No. 65. The circumstance leads one to suspect that some error has been made by a transcriber; it does not prove that they are erroneous as referring to Abraham. An expert genealogist states that Abraham was born in 1710 and died 1732. It is mentioned that he had one son Abraham, a Captain in the Revolutionary Army. If this is true, Capt. Abraham was almost certainly an only child, and born the year of his father's death.

Page 103, No. 83.—Kezia Baldwin married, not Isaac Crane but Samuel⁴ Crane [John³, Azariah², Jasper¹]. The children named as those of Isaac and Kezia were except the last, children of Samuel and Kezia. Isaac married —— and had a son Isaac, who married and in turn had a son Isaac, born 1767. No further trace of descendants.

Page 103, No. 84.—Ezekiel Crane was born May 8, 1711 and died in March or April 1794. He was a leading founder of the Baptist Church at Lyons Farms April 17, 1769. He married first about 1738-

9† Phebe ——, undoubtedly Dalglish or Douglas. His second wife was Abigail Baldwin, born about 1724, died some where between 1773 and 1779. She was daughter of Nathaniel⁴ Baldwin§, 1690-1750 [John³ and Ruth Botsford, daughter of Henry, John² and Mary, Sylvester¹ and Sarah Bryant]. Record of dates of birth of the older children are wanting, except in the case of Phebe. The following record is probably substantially correct, although the name of Joseph should stand first in the list.

Children of Ezekiel and Phebe (Dalglish?) Crane:

I. Phebe; b. 1740; bapt. at Lyons Farms Baptist Church, Oct. 15, 1769; m. Deacon John Ball [Timothy³, Thomas², Edward¹]; d. 1781.

II. Sarah; b. about 1742; m. a Crane, probably Matthias⁴, b. 1737-8; d. 1777; grad. Yale College [John³ and Abigail ——, Azariah², Jasper¹]; they had children.

III. Rachel; b. 1744-5; d. 1783-7; m. Joseph Lyon, A. B. (No. 91).

IV. Joseph; b. 1738-9; d. 1779-80; bapt. with Phebe, Oct. 15, 1769; m. Eunice Dod, daughter of Thomas; it was his uncle Joseph, No. 87, who married Elizabeth Johnson, afterwards Mrs. Paul Day.

Children of Ezekiel and Abigail (Baldwin) Crane:

V. Jonathan; b. Dec. 22, 1749; d. Feb. 1753, not 1785 as stated.

VI. Joanna; b. about 1751; m. 1st Joseph⁵ Plum, b. 1745, d. 1787 [John⁴, John³, Samuel², John¹], they had children, one of whom was Isaac, the first Plum to change the name to Plume. Joanna m. 2nd about 1788 Elias E. Vreeland, b. Dec. 20, 1750; d. March 29, 1828; bur. in Canfield Graveyard, Cedar Grove, N. J.

VII. Elias; b. Sept. 10 1753; d. March 13, 1809; m. about 1775 Phebe⁶ Brown, b. Feb. 12, 1758, d. 1828, [Stephen⁵, Stephen⁴, Joseph³, John², John¹]. Elias was a private in Capt. Josiah Pierson's Company, Second Regt. Essex Co., Revolutionary Army.

Page 103, No. 237.—The children of Deacon John and Phebe (Crane) Ball were:

I. Calvin.

II: Luther.

†The grounds for believing that Ezekiel was twice married are these: 1. His daughter Phebe was born in 1740, when Abigail Baldwin was only sixteen years old, possibly seventeen or eighteen [Baldwin Genealogy says she was born 1724, the date was certainly not before 1722]; 2. An Ezekiel Crane "born about 1710" married Phebe Dalglish [Douglas], born 1715, daughter of John² and Sarah (Ward) Dalglish [Robert¹ and Mary Dennison]; no Ezekiel Crane is recorded in New Jersey earlier than 1727-8 except this Ezekiel of Joseph b. 1711; note also that Phebe Dalglish's mother was Sarah and that Phebe had a sister Rachel, who married a Canfield.

§Nathaniel Baldwin married first Mary Congar, dau. of Samuel² [John¹ and Mary]—so says Baldwin Genealogy; others say that Nathaniel's wife was Mary³ Crane [Azariah² and Mary Treat, Jasper¹ and Alice]. Mary Treat was the daughter of Capt. Robert Treat and Jane Tapp, dau. of Edmund Tapp. Capt. Robert Treat was son of Richard Treat and Alice ——. Nathaniel had seven children by wife Mary. In 1730 he married a second wife Esther, 1689-1763, and had five children by her.

N. B. Page and serial numbers are those of Vol. II.

III. Phebe [Littell's Genealogy calls her Rachel.]

Deacon John Ball married second Miss _____ Fairchild and had: 1. John; 2. David; 3. Daniel; 4. Uzel.

Page 103, No. 234.—The children of Elias and Phebe (Brown) Crane were:

- I. David; b. 1776; d. 1782.
- II. Stephen; b. 1778.
- III. Moses; b. 1779.
- IV. Eunice; b. 1781.
- V. Mary; b. 1783.
- VI. Jonathan; b. 1784.
- VII. David (2nd); b. 1786.
- VIII. Rachel; b. 1789.
- IX. Jabez; b. 1790.
- X. Cyrus; b. 1791; d. 1809.
- XI. Abigail; b. 1794; d. 1836.
- XII. William; b. 1799.

Page 103, No. 240.—Israel Crane, Jr., born about 1735-40 had a son Israel, born about 1760-1765, of Cranetown, N. J. He married Fanny Pierson, daughter of Dr. Matthias Pierson of Orange, N. J. This Israel Crane was a well known road builder and public spirited Jerseyman, who for many years owned the Pompton Turnpike, and who was a commissioner appointed by the State to finance the Morris Canal.

Page 103, No. 86.—Jerusha Cook, wife of Capt. Josiah Crane, was daughter of Obediah Cook of Long Island. Captain Josiah and his wife Jerusha were buried in the cemetery at Connecticut Farms, now called Union.

Page 103, Footnote.—The statements of this footnote involve chronological impossibilities. It is true that there was an Isaac Crane who married Mary Muchmore, daughter of Samuel, but it could not have been the Isaac born 1767. [A. B. L.].

Page 104, No. 251.—Josiah Crane died after the close of the war in 1785, while on a journey to visit his brother Elias who had removed to Kentucky. He married Abigail Lyon, daughter of John, No.

51. His wife's family lived in Morris County and he went from Essex County up into Morris County and enlisted in the army and is supposed to have been married sometime during the Revolutionary war. It is stated that he was a soldier in the Jersey Blues and was with Washington and Lafayette in all the battles fought in New Jersey, including Trenton, Monmouth and Brandywine.

Children of Josiah and Abigail (Lyon) Crane:

I. John Josiah (?); date of birth in doubt; the Crane Genealogy says, b. March 8, 1767; d. 1808; m. Nov. 7, 1790, Rebecca Saffer, b. Sept. 22, 1769; d. Oct. 26, 1847; something is wrong here if John Josiah was really son of Josiah, b. 1753.

II. Benjamin; b. at Lyons Farms, Feb. 18, 1783; d. in New York, 1832; m. 1st Elsey Schuyler; m. 2nd Jane Low.

BENJAMIN^o CRANE [Josiah⁵, Capt. Josiah⁴, Abigail³ (Lyon) Joseph², Henry¹], also [Abigail⁶ (Lyon) John⁴, Isaac³, Thomas², Henry¹], born at Lyons Farms Feb. 18, 1783; died in New York 1832. He married first, March 28, 1804, Elsey Schuyler, born March 28, 1787, died July 15, 1806. He married second in New York City April 25, 1807, Jane Low, who was born Aug. 16, 1783, died Dec. 14, 1833; daughter of William Low.

Daughter of Benjamin and Elsey (Schuyler) Crane:

I. Ann Maria; b. Jan. 18, 1805; d. July 13, 1805.

Children of Benjamin and Jane (Low) Crane:

II. Benjamin Franklin; b. Feb. 16, 1808; m. Sept. 15, 1834, Amanda F. Chardavoyne; d. Feb. 13, 1839.

III. Theodore; b. Oct. 8, 1809.

IV. Elsey Schuyler; b. Aug. 14, 1811.

V. John Josiah; b. Jan. 19, 1813; res. New York City; from him the compiler of the Crane Genealogy got his information relative to his grandfather, but some error has been made in the record of his uncle (?) John Josiah.

VI. Madison; b. Aug. 15, 1815; d. Sept. 1, 1815.

VII. Augustus; b. Jan. 13, 1817; m. Elizabeth Balleo, Morristown, N. J.

VIII. William Low; b. Jan. 25, 1819; d. May 19, 1819.

Page 104, No. 90.—The data in this paragraph certainly do not relate to Ephraim Sayre, No. 90. This Ephraim was popularly known as Deacon Ephraim Sayre. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary Army and a personal and intimate friend of Washington. Among the descendants of this Ephraim are Joseph Sayre, architect, of Newark, N. J., Sidney L. Thompson of Elizabeth, N. J., and Dr. Lewis Albert Sayre, the founder of Bellevue Hospital, New York City. John Sayre, a brother of Ephraim resided in New York City in 1785. He removed to Philadelphia. Among his descendants were Dr. Francis Bowes Sayre, also died during the yellow fever epidemic of 1799 and, in the present day, Robert Sayre of South Bethlehem, Pa., owner of the Sayre Observatory there; he is also a banker and railroad magnate. The record in the text of the children of Ephraim Sayre—also the footnote, should be canceled as irrelevant.

Page 105, No. 91.—Rachel Crane, wife of Joseph Lyon, A. B., was born 1744-5, not 1739, and was probably daughter of Ezekiel and Phebe, not of Ezekiel and Abigail, as already stated. In line 2, page 105, for 1892 read 1802. In line 5, instead of "cousin" read "second cousin." Joseph Lyon, A. B., made his will Feb. 5, 1817, probated June 16, 1821. Names his wife Sarah and children Sarah Wilbur and Mary Cook, also names Abraham Cook, husband of Mary Cook. Executor "my friend David Lyon" (No. 306). Witnesses: Isaiah Meeker, Sarah Meeker and Phebe Meeker. Note that the descendants of Joseph Lyon, A. B., trace by two lines to Joseph² Lyon and Henry¹ Lyon.

Page 105, No. 92.—Abigail Lyon was born July 14, 1754. Dr. Caleb Halstead was son of Caleb Halstead, born 1725 and wife Rebecca, born 1730. The record of her children should read:

II. Joseph Lyon; b. April, 1779; d. Oct. 1779.

Jan. 1, 1738, d. April 20, 1800, and Susan Kinnan, b. May 7, 1740, d. May 14, 1807. This is undoubtedly the Rachel Lyon referred to on p. 240 as mother of John Lyon, No. 2169. His death resulted from injuries received while driving a load of hay into his barn on the old homestead at Lyons, Somerset Co., N. J: After his death Rachel married ——— Toan.

Page 137, No. 390.—This account and that of No. 316, page 131, evidently relate to the same Nathaniel. One may argue from the fact that Mercy Wilcox was a sister of Sarah, wife of Ebenezer Lyon, No. 385, that the Nathaniel who married Mercy was a brother of Ebenezer. The Revolutionary War record certainly belongs to the same Nathaniel, since his widow Mercy applied for a pension—unless both were in the Revolution or else each had married a wife Mercy. [It may be noted that Littell gives the name of Nathaniel's wife in different places as Mary, Mercy and Massey.] The question of the identity of Nathaniel, Revolutionary soldier, cannot be positively settled from evidence at present available.

Page 238, No. 2161.—It is stated in line 2 that Mary was born about 1720; lower on the page the date is given as about 1722; the latter is perhaps a closer approximation. The first four names in this list, Nos. 2160, 2161, 2162 and 2163 undoubtedly belong to descendants of Samuel⁵ Lyon through Samuel³, Joseph³, Henry³ or possibly John³.

Page 238, No. 2163a.—Colonel James Lyon is identified as James No. 183, son of Henry⁴. Mrs. Helen Lyon Deas, who lives near Newark or Orange, N. J., is a descendant of Colonel James.

Page 238, No. 2164.—Certainly not Phebe No. 161, daughter of Daniel⁴. She was probably a daughter of Samuel Lyon No. 62.

Page 238, No. 2165.—Stephen, b. 1751, is almost certainly Stephen No. 192, son of Henry⁴, but it was not this Stephen who married Nancy Hill. The name of his wife was Mary.

Pagt 238, No. 2167.—Identified as No. 150, daughter of Eliphilet⁴, erroneously recorded on p. 98 as Betsey Harrison.

Page 238, No. 2168.—Identified as John Heath⁷ Lyon [Nathaniel S.⁶, David⁵, Nathaniel⁴, Capt. Henry³, Samuel²; Henry¹]; No. 2405 on a subsequent page. For born about 1765, read born Aug. 21, 1819.

Page 238, No. 2169.—Identified as son of David⁵ Lyon No. 178 and Rachel McCoy. He was born April 14, 1781, not 1770-5.

Page 238, No. 2170.—Identifitd as Samuel, No. 606, son of David⁵ Lyon. The name should certainly not have appeared in this place.

Page 238, No. 2170a.—Probably Samuel son of John No. 199 or possibly son of Samuel No. 197; in either case grandson of Joseph⁴ No. 69.

Page 238, No. 2171.—Possibly Aaron No. 400, son of John⁶. Probably a son of Aaron No. 141. The date of his birth is given here 1799, on p. 240 it is given as probably about 1795. It is stated here that he married Rachel Townley; on p. 240 that he married Rachel Townley Harrison, the former no doubt her maiden name; the latter should read: Mrs. Rachel (Townley) Harrison.

Page 238, No. 2160.—It is stated here that Prudence Lyon married Josiah Baldwin. Congar in his Notes says it was Joshua Baldwin.

Page 238, No. 2173a.—Read: Zenas; m. Aug. 31, 1769, Dorcas Younglove, bapt. Sept. 27, 1747, daughter of Ezekiel Younglove and Mary Lyon No. 2163.

Page 238, No. 2162.—The statement that Rebecca Lyon at the age of thirty-six married a man ten years her junior is remarkable if true. One may note that only two children are recorded, both girls.

Page 239, No. 2165.—Stephen Lyon who married Nancy Hill was son of David⁵ No. 178, and was born in 1789, not in 1755 (or 1751 as it is on p. 238). The Stephen born 1751-5 was No. 192; his wife's name was Mary. A part of this record probably relates to him. See record on a succeeding page of Stephen Lyon No. 464e.

Page 251, last paragraph.—Rev. David Lyon is fully identified as grandson of David⁵ Lyon No. 178. The line is: David⁷ [Stephen⁶, David⁵, Nathaniel⁴, Capt. Henry³, Samuel², Henry¹].

Page 352, line 12.—For Palo, read Polo.

Page 375, Line 9.—Clarinda (not Clorinda) Lyon was relict of Edward Birch Lyon, a Michigan pioneer who came to Dundee, Mich., about 1832 from Sacket Harbor, N. Y. His record is given in Vol. I, page 317. His father, Abel Lyon, was certainly a descendant of Richard Lyon of Fairfield, and not improbably the Abel Lyon who served in the Revolutionary war from Lanesboro, Mass. (No. 155), or possibly a son of that Abel. The given name "Caleb Meeker" of one of Abel's grand children points surely to Fairfield, Conn., as the home of the family.

Page 378, line 3.—The date of Samuel's birth, Oct. 6, 1836, has been accidentally omitted; his death occurred in 1905.

Page 391, line 1.—Eliminate this and the following correction: "David" and "Cosad" are right as they stand in the text. The name Cosad was written by the original emigrants Cossart. It is variously written by their descendants, Cosad, Cozad, Casad, Cosart, Cosard and Cassatt.

Page 391, lines 20, 21 and 25.—Eliminate these corrections: Domineck, Roy and Spiretsma are the right readings.

BELATED ITEMS.

The following items were received too late to be placed in regular sequence.

Page 93, No. 87 (See also page 364 of this volume).—Joseph Crane's youngest daughter Elizabeth, born about 1770. She married in 1794 Daniel Doty, born March 23, 1765, son of John² Doty [Joseph¹] and his second wife Sarah Clark, daughter of Daniel Clark, a descendant of Richard Clark of Elizabethtown, N. J. Daniel Doty married first, about 1787, Elizabeth Potter, who soon died (about 1789-90, daughter of Amos³ [Daniel², Samuel¹] and sister of John Potter, who married Bethiah Lyon, No. 388 and also settled in Butler Co., O. In 1790 Daniel Doty went on an exploring tour down the Ohio river as far as the present site of Cincinnati. He found there only two houses—log cabins—one occupied by Major Benjamin Stites, from Scotch Plains, N. J., the other by Capt. John S. Gano, also from New Jersey. Rev. Daniel Clark, uncle of Daniel Doty, was the first minister of the gospel in that region, having previously preached many years in Pennsylvania. Daniel Doty returned to New Jersey 1793-4, to bring thence his new bride, Elizabeth Crane; he purchased a large tract of land in Butler Co., near the present site of Middletown and settled upon it in the fall of 1795 or spring of 1796. There he reared a large family, and there, on May 8, 1848, he died. The date of his wife's death has not been ascertained.

Page 103, No. 233 (see also page 370 of this volume).—Joseph Crane (not Phebe as stated on page 370 of this volume) was the oldest child of Ezekiel and Phebe Crane. He married Eunice Dod, born 1741-2, died Feb. 20, 1822, daughter of Thomas⁴ Dod [Daniel³, Daniel, Jr.², Daniel¹] and Sarah Newcomb. The following record is preserved in the Courthouse at Newark, N. J.: "On May 5, 1794, the lands of Joseph Crane, deceased, in Newark, were divided between Sarah, wife of Timothy Day, Jr., Phebe Crane and Rhoda Crane, minors, said lands bounded north by the road and lands of Tabitha Woods[§] and southeast and southward by lands of Ezekiel Crane [No. 84]. Silas Howell, Simeon Broadwell and Daniel Brnen, Commissioners."

Children of Joseph and Eunice (Dod) Crane:

I. Sarah; b. Sept. 27, 1773; d. Feb. 26, 1860; m. Sept. 27, 1792, Timothy Day, Jr., b. Sept. 3, 1768; d. Dec. 31, 1843.

II. Phebe; b. about 1776-7.

III. Rhoda; b. about 1778-9.

It is likely that there were other children older than Sarah but not living in 1794.

Page 115, No. 413.—Asher Lyon could not have been a son of Aaron, No. 141, who was born 1769, since Asher's son Joseph, No. 728, was born 1785. Neither does it seem very probable that Asher was a grandson of Mattaniah, No. 52, born 1724, although that would not be impossible. He might more easily have been grandson of Mattaniah, No. 17, born not later than 1694, but there seems to be no reason for believing this. It will be noticed that his wife's maiden name was Smith, so that the unidentified Smith Lyon, born about 1790, who married Jerusha Dean in Springfield, N. J., might easily have been his son. As it is, the names of Asher Lyon, No. 413, his son Joseph, No. 728 and his grandsons, Jacob L., No. 1219, John H., No. 1216 and Philip E., No. 1221, should find place in the list of unidentified Lyons.

DESCENDANTS OF DAVID LYON, NO. 178.

From Dr. Palmer Heath Lyon there have been received opportunely the following records of some of the descendants of David Lyon, No. 178, whose children are given among the foregoing notes; see page 375 of this volume.

464e. VI. 178. STEPHEN⁶ LYON [David⁵, Nathaniel⁴, Capt. Henry³, Samuel², Henry¹] was born at Lyons, Somerset Co., N. J., Sept. 3, 1789, and died Sept. 10, 1873. One may surmise that that record really applies to this Stephen, but with erroneous dates of birth and death of Nancy Hill. WILLIAM LYON OF GREENFIELD, MASS.

In Volume I. of the Lyon Memorial, pp. 391, 392, there are memoranda of several Lyons who lived in Greenfield, Mass., 1790-1820. It seems most likely that they were all related, perhaps all descendants of Caleb Lyon, No. 168. Caleb was married April 28, 1756. He may have had a son born early in 1757, and it would have been natural that he should have named him John from his grandfather and great grandfather. This would account for the John Lyon who died in Greenfield Oct., 1798. The John born 1781 might have been the oldest son of the foregoing, and was probably the same John who bought a saw-mill in 1803, who married Patience _____, and removed from Greenfield to Bernardston, and who died Sept. 19, 1839, leaving seven children. Another plausible hypothesis is that Caleb's brother John, born 1740, joined him in Greenfield, after his marriage, which took place in Goshen Aug. 8, 1771. (See Vol. I, p. 67). This would then probably be the John who died 1798, and the John born 1781 may have been his son. Betsey Lyon, who was married in Greenfield Jan. 28, 1795, was probably a daughter of Caleb, or else of his brother John. §

It will be remembered that Caleb's son Caleb, No. 361, removed to New York, settling first in Walworth, Wayne Co. Now William Lyon of Wayne Co., N. Y. (see Vol. I, p. 312), whose son Daniel lived in Walworth, may very easily have been a brother or cousin of Caleb, Jr., and, since we have no other clew to his antecedents, we may accept this as a plausible hypothesis—the more so, since the immediate relatives of Caleb, Sr. were of an uncommonly enterprising disposition.

Records have recently been received of another Lyon of Greenfield, who certainly belonged to the family of Caleb, and who also went to New York State to seek his fortune. His name also was

§ It will be remembered that several of the brothers of Caleb Lyon settled in Goshen, which is not very far from Greenfield; it is quite possible that some of their descendants came to Greenfield. We may note that one of them, Levi, had a son John born 1780, but he seems not to have been long a resident of Goshen. Some of the sons of Aaron Lyon of Sturbridge lived 1780-1825 in Ashfield, quite near Greenfield and many of their descendants have never been traced. Jacob Lyon No. 132, from Woodstock, settled about 1770 in Gageboro, not far from Greenfield. There was a son Jacob and a daughter "Rockse" of whose history nothing has been ascertained, but the children were left fatherless while yet very young and might naturally have gone to join their kinsfolk in Greenfield. It will be noted that the name Roxy appears among the children of William of Greenfield. There seems no reason for supposing that any of the Lyons of Lanesboro and New Ashford, descendants of Richard of Fairfield, found their way to Greenfield.

William, born July 25, 1790. He could hardly have been a son of Caleb, Sr., or even of Caleb's brother John. It is almost certain that he was grandson of one or the other of these, probably of Caleb. His grandson, Alva E. Lyon, of Perry, Ia., says that he was one of a family of twelve or thirteen children, one of them named Horace. They were probably not all children of one mother, but the name of the father has passed out of the remembrance of the family. One of the brothers was probably the Rufus Lyon who had a daughter born in Greenfield Nov. 15, 1820—probably the same Rufus who was afterward (1827) Justice of the Peace and town clerk in Stockbridge, Windsor Co., Vt. This is inferred from the fact that William named one of his sons Rufus.

William Lyon left home at the age of fourteen, "his mother having died and his father having married again," and went to Vermont, where he lived ten years. It seems likely that he spent those years in Craftsbury, where Nehemiah Lyon, probably his father's own cousin, had settled. About 1814 William Lyon removed from Vermont to Allegany County, N. Y., where he married Rhoda Millett March 22, 1815. He remained in that region twenty-eight years, then went west, locating in Jo Daviess County, Ill., where he died April 25, 1881. The brothers of William became widely scattered, settling in New York, Vermont, Pennsylvania and even in Georgia. Family tradition says that one of the sons had a daughter Mary who was a fine musician in her time.

SAMUEL LYON OF HARTFORD.

(See Vol. II. p. 371.)

Nothing new has been learned of the antecedents of this Samuel, but he was certainly of the family of Richard Lyon of Fairfield, and quite likely may have been No. 198 (Vol. II. p. 271). The name of one of his grandsons, the oldest child of Ezra Lyon (Vol. I. p. 316), Caleb Meeker Slocum Lyon is very suggestive, pointing to a close relationship with the family of Caleb⁴ Lyon [Samuel³, Richard², Richard¹] of Fairfield, since Caleb's daughter Rhoda married Caleb Meeker. Ezra's brother, Levi C. Lyon, married a Slocum. Samuel Lyon with his family moved to Fulton, Co., N. Y., about 1795, settling in Edinburg and securing land, it is said, from Van Vechten, Patroon of Albany. According to H. M. Lyon of Minneapolis, his great grandson, there were five of the sons who settled in New York State, in Saratoga and Fulton Counties.

One of these was Levi C. Lyon (Vol II, p. 371), another was certainly Abel Lyon (Vol. I, p. 316), still another was probably Ezra Lyon (Vol. I, p. 316), who was brother, not son, of Abel. Irene (Lyon) Bass was almost certainly a daughter of Samuel. The revised record of Samuel's family, as far as ascertained is as follows:

Children of Samuel and Eunice (—) Lyon:

- I. Abel; b. about 1775.
- II. Ezra; b. about 1790.
- III. Levi C.; b. Hartford, Conn., 1791.
- IV. Irena; b. about 1792-7.

There were several other children, including two sons.

Recently some other descendants of Abel Lyon have been traced. One of Abel's sons was Daniel Brayton Lyon. The fact that the name Brayton occurs also in the family of Edward Birch Lyon, another of Abel's sons, makes it probable that the maiden name of some common ancestor, possibly Eunice, wife of Samuel, was Brayton. Abel's wife's name was Esther Pulling, said to have been born about the time of the battle of Lexington, and to have lived not far from Danbury, Conn. Daniel Brayton Lyon was born in Edinburg, N. Y., Feb. 24, 1820. He was a graduate of Union College 1847 (name given erroneously in Vol. I, page 419 as David B. Lyon); Phi Beta Kappa; became an Episcopal clergyman and lived successively in Battle Creek, Mich., Ionia, Mich., Ripon, Wis., and (1908) Minneapolis, Minn. When living in Ripon he was County Superintendent of Schools, Fond du lac Co., Wis. He married, at Battle Creek, Mich., Dec. 31, 1853, Tirzah West Lord of New Ireland, Quebec, daughter of Peter Chandler Lord and Lois Dexter West.

ANCIENT LYON RESIDENCE AT REDDING, CONN.

ADDENDA.

October fifth, 1710, the French fort at Port Royal, Nova Scotia, was surrendered with 258 men to a force of Colonials under command of Col. Francis Nicholson, who was colonial governor of Maryland 1694-99, of Virginia 1699-1705, of Nova Scotia 1712-17 and of South Carolina 1721-25. Among the officers under Col. Nicholson there was a Captain Lyon, whose identity has not been ascertained. The fort was renamed by its captors Annapolis. One of the keys which were given up at the surrender is now in the cabinet of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

It is recorded on page 368 of Vol. I, that Joanna Lyon married in Dedham, Mass., Sept. 20, 1733 Benoni Fairbanks. May not this Joanna or Johanna have been a daughter of Samuel³ and Joanna (Weld) Lyon [William², William¹], perhaps the "Hannah," No. 120, said to have been baptized July 24, 1714? It would have been natural for Samuel to name one of his daughters Joanna, and the names Hannah and Johannah might be easily confused. Note that Eleazer and Jedediah, sons of Samuel, each named a daughter Joanna.

To record of Daniel Brayton Lyon, p. 432, add the following items:

Charles Brayton Lyon; grad. Ripon college. Res. 1908 425 Oak Grove St., Minneapolis; m. at Marquette, Wis., June 6, 1883 Martha McCracken, dau. of Samuel M. and Margaret A. A LYON FAMILY TRADITION.

From a letter written Feb. 18, 1879, by Alvin Lyon, son of Elisha, No. 450 of family^o of William of Roxbury; Alvin was then 83 years old.

The Tradditions of Our family are like this:

Long time past Our ancestors lived in france Near the City of Lyons. At the Massacre of St. Bartholomew, Being French Hugenots a Remnant escaped the Massacre of that Terable Night. they went Over to England where we received a commingling of Anglo Saxon Blood took place. passing to Wales and not liking they returned to England and from theire Seven Brothers of the name of Lyon emigrated to this Country. they came Direct to providence Bringing their families theire Ox Yokes their Hay poles plows chains and all the Impliments of husbandry. Havein procured Carts and Oxen they proceeded Inland when Night came on they divided themselves among the farmers the woman took from the cart her wheel and obtaining a Distiff of flax sat down to her wheel with a will the old man God Bless him, took his ax and mounted the wood pile in this way they came to Woodstock Windham Co. Conn. theire these seven brothers bot farms and settled. Theire names I don't know. From the Seven Brothers all the Lyons in the United States are said to have desended.

I suppose it was as far back as the Indinan War that my great grand father Belonging to a Cavlry Company heard a Discharge of Musquetry and with Curage that New No fear went to Reconoitre. A sharp Report a horse without a Rider soon told his fate, his name I think was Aaron Lyon. A Blacksmiths shop in 1780 Covered the spot where the Ashes of the hero lay. The care of the family then fell to my grand father Jonathan Lyon. He married Rebecca Corbin and they raised a Large family. The youngest children, Hannah, Nancy, Moses and Corbin were schoolmates at Woodstock Academy with governor Marcey of this State. My father's name was Elisha. He and his Brother Abel came to Milford, N. Y., 1790. The town was then an unbroken wildernes. My uncle Jonathan (Vol. I, No. 451) was Colonel in the Windham Regiment and went down to Stonington in 1812. We claim as of our line General Lyon who was killed at Springfield Mossiri.

The story of our foreign Birth I Learned from My Mother whose name previous to her marriage was Rebecca Clark, a woman of high culture, born in pomfret near Putnam's Wolf Den. My father came from Woodstock to Milford about 1789 with his ax and his Brother Abel, bot 200 acres and chopt til July then went back to Woodstock to work in haying the next March with 2 yoke of Oxen, a wood sled, mother, a baby boy, a few articles of goods they began life in Milford. * * my great grand father was returning from providence with his cart and oxen heavily loaded when he met governor Trumbul in his coach, the governor thought the yeoman would turn out and the man with the Lyon Blood said No. the governor said whoa But man with the Lyon Blood In him said goalong Buck and the governor was in the Dirt.

In the war of the Revolution my grandfather was old enough to have been a Soldier But was prevented By a Broken Limb making him a Cripple for life.

[The foregoing in an interesting blending of heroic myth, legendary history and personal reminiscence. One can hear in it the ipsissima verba of that good mother of his, Rebecca Clark.]

Just as this volume is going to press, there comes the unwelcome news that GEORGE HENDRICK LYON (No. 2046) died at his home at Mt. Jewett, Pa., Friday, April 10, 1908, after a brief illness, of pneumonia. It is matter of sincere regret that he could not have lived to see the completion of the memorial, in the progress of which he had taken so keen and active an interest.
